The Market For Human Blood:

The Market for Human Blood Douglas E. Hough, 1978      The Economics of the Market for Human Blood Douglas Earle Hough, 1976      Last Best Gifts Kieran Healy, 2010-08-15 More than any other altruistic gesture blood and organ donation exemplifies the true spirit of self sacrifice Donors literally give of themselves for no reward so that the life of an individual often anonymous may be spared But as the demand for blood and organs has grown the value of a system that depends solely on gifts has been called into question and the possibility has surfaced that donors might be supplemented or replaced by paid suppliers Last Best Gifts offers a fresh perspective on this ethical dilemma by examining the social organization of blood and organ donation in Europe and the United States Gifts of blood and organs are not given everywhere in the same way or to the same extent contrasts that allow Kieran Healy to uncover the pivotal role that institutions play in fashioning the contexts for donations Procurement organizations he shows sustain altruism by providing opportunities to give and by producing public accounts of what giving means In the end Healy suggests successful systems rest on the fairness of the exchange rather than the purity of a donor s altruism or the size of a financial incentive      Markets without Limits Jason F. Brennan, Peter Jaworski, 2015-08-20 May you sell your vote May you sell your kidney May gay men pay surrogates to bear them children May spouses pay each other to watch the kids do the dishes or have sex Should we allow the rich to genetically engineer gifted beautiful children Should we allow betting markets on terrorist attacks and natural disasters Most people shudder at the thought To put some goods and services for sale offends human dignity If everything is commodified then nothing is sacred The market corrodes our character Or so most people say In Markets without Limits Jason Brennan and Peter Jaworski give markets a fair hearing The market does not introduce wrongness where there was not any previously Thus the authors claim the question of what rightfully may be bought and sold has a simple answer if you may do it for free you may do it for money Contrary to the conservative consensus they claim there are no inherent limits to what can be bought and sold but only restrictions on how we buy and sell      Blood, Plasma, and Plasma Proteins José Luis Valverde, 2006 Labile blood products and plasma derived products are very sensitive from a social viewpoint Along with the challenges faced by all medicinal products there is an added challenge due to the lack of raw material and the social problems with regards to their acquisition Obtaining them depends on blood and plasma donations which are insufficient Europeans as a whole fail to even cover 40 % of their needs in plasma for fractionation The aspiration that all donations shall be voluntary free and unpaid is an altruistic objective which reality unfortunately contradicts every day Governments and all social Agencies should promote to the maximum its actions in order to achieve the greatest number of donation each day Even from a humanitarian or ethical viewpoint nobody can deny a possible donor accepting incentives This incentive discussion plus the concept of self sufficiency of countries and more are discussed in this volume      Alternative Approaches to Human Blood Resources in Clinical Practice Cees Smit

Sibinga,P.C. Das,J.C. Fratantoni,1998-09-30 Currently blood is a volatile issue The safety of blood and the quantification of transfusion risks have been dominant themes that have stimulated the development of alternative approaches in this rapidly developing area In clinical medicine conventional blood and its components are used in supportive therapies dependent on the choice of apparent uncritical trigger factors A compounding factor is depth of prospective clinical trials for evidence Such trials in critical care areas would be of enormous value not only in recording adverse effects and under transfusion but also indicating the value of decision analysis and cost effectiveness in transfusion practice Alternative approaches include the use of cytokines growth factors humanised monoclonal antibodies recombinant plasma factors and buffy coat derived natural human interferons These are being increasingly implemented in the clinic Solutions for oxygen transport are being developed and fibrinogen coated microcapsules are being investigated for thrombocytopenia In surgical patients various crystalloid and colloid combinations are explored as volume replacements To avoid allogeneic transfusions beneficial blood saving methods include various strategies such as autologous deposits normovolemic haemodilution and various agents including aprotinin tranecamic acid desmopressin and erythropoietin but their use in hospital shows considerable variations That umbilical cord blood could be a significant source of allogeneic stem cells in related and unrelated transplantation is illustrated by the increasing number of cord blood banks in Europe and elsewhere Future blood resources are likely to face several challenges immediate challenges relate to increased regulatory and political oversights intermediate solutions would offer some improvements in public health and alleviate public fear but probably not address the economic challenges thrust upon the medical care system As we approach the year 2000 the major concerns about transfusion medicine remain its logistics safety and effectiveness This theme is presented in the proceedings of the 22nd International Symposium on Blood Transfusion developed in 21 up to date topics collected and discussed in four sections This book will be of timely value to students professionals and all others interested or involved in the field of transfusion medicine whether clinical or related
