

Treasure Island

Robert Louis Stevenson

Pre-reading.

Explain that you are about to embark on a new class novel. Ask the children that if you said you were going to be looking at pirates, what book do they think you will be reading. (Someone is bound to say 'Treasure Island'...we hope...) Then ask the children what they already know about pirates. Do they know of any famous pirates in particular? Their knowledge may vary, but anything that gets them thinking will be advantageous).

Curriculum Cymreig.

Get the children to research any well-known Welsh Pirates.

Or

Give a copy of the pictures of Henry Morgan and Howell Davis out. You could give the class some background about who they were and what they did. The class must look at the pictures carefully, then: Write a description of an imaginary pirate. Describe the way they look, how they dress and what they do.

Introduction

Explain that the book was first published in 1883. Robert Louis Stevenson did not write the book for children, it was really written for adults. This information should prepare the class for the language used, which some of them may find difficult.

Chapter 1.

(Page references based on Heinemann New Windmill Series).

Read Page 1, 2 and 9 (description of Billy Bones).

1. Draw a picture from the description given. Label your drawing with the relevant information.
2. Underneath the picture describe: -
 - How he walks.
 - His luggage.

(The same could be done for 'Blind Pew' and 'Long John Silver')
