World Is My Cinema:

Cinemas of the World James Chapman, 2004-06-03 The cinema has been the pre eminent popular art form of the 20th century In Cinemas of the World James Chapman examines the relationship between film and society in the modern world film as entertainment medium film as a reflection of national cultures and preoccupations film as an instrument of propaganda He also explores two interrelated issues that have recurred throughout the history of cinema the economic and cultural hegemony of Hollywood on the one hand and on the other the attempts of film makers elsewhere to establish indigenous national cinemas drawing on their own cultures and societies Chapman examines the rise to dominance of Hollywood cinema in the silent and early sound periods He discusses the characteristic themes of American movies from the Depression to the end of the Cold War especially those found in the western and film noir genres that are often used as vehicles for exploring issues central to us society and politics He looks at national cinemas in various European countries in the period between the end of the First World War and the end of the Second which all exhibit the formal and aesthetic properties of modernism The emergence of the so called new cinemas of Europe and the wider world since 1960 are also explored Chapman is a tough thinking original writer an engaging excellent piece of work David Lancaster Film and History

The Oxford History of World Cinema Geoffrey Nowell-Smith, 1996 Featuring nearly three thousand film stills production shots and other illustrations an authoritative history of the cinema traces the development of the medium its filmmakers and stars and the evolution of national cinemas around the world

Cinema's Bodily Illusions Scott C. Richmond, 2016-10-15 Do contemporary big budget blockbuster films like Gravity move something in us that is fundamentally the same as what avant garde and experimental films have done for more than a century In a powerful challenge to mainstream film theory Cinema's Bodily Illusions demonstrates that this is the case Scott C Richmond bridges genres and periods by focusing most palpably on cinema's power to evoke illusions feeling like you're flying through space experiencing 3D without glasses or even hallucinating He argues that cinema is first and foremost a technology to modulate perception He presents a theory of cinema as a proprioceptive technology cinema becomes art by modulating viewers embodied sense of space It works primarily not at the level of the intellect but at the level of the body Richmond develops his theory through examples of direct perceptual illusion in cinema hallucinatory flicker phenomena in Tony Conrad's The Flicker eerie depth effects in Marcel Duchamp's An mic Cin ma the illusion of bodily movement through onscreen space in Stanley Kubrick's 2001 Godfrey Reggio's Koyaanisqatsi and Alfonso Cuarón's Gravity In doing so he combines insights from Maurice Merleau Ponty's phenomenology of perception and James J Gibson's ecological approach to perception The result is his distinctive ecological phenomenology which allows us to refocus on the cinema's perceptual rather than representational power Arguing against modernist habits of mind in film theory and aesthetics and the attendant proclamations of cinema's death or irrelevance Richmond demonstrates that cinema's proprioceptive aesthetics make it an urgent site of contemporary inquiry
