Rethinking the Academic Experience Malcolm Tight, 2025-08-11 Rethinking the Academic Experience explores the collective experiences of everyone in higher education settings from students to those who teach and support them Malcolm Tight presents the academy as a single but highly complex and interconnected entity examining its individual stakeholders and elements to better understand these institutions

Tribes and Territories in the 21st Century Paul Trowler, Murray Saunders, Veronica Bamber, 2012-01-25 The tribes and territories metaphor for the cultures of academic disciplines and their roots in different knowledge characteristics has been used by those interested in university life and work since the early 1990s This book draws together research data and theory to show how higher education has gone through major change since then and how social theory has evolved in parallel Together these changes mean there is a need to re-theorise academic life in a way which reflects changed contexts in universities in the twenty first century and so a need for new metaphors Using a social practice approach the editors and contributors argue that disciplines are alive and well but that in a turbulent environment where many other forces conditioning academic practices exist their influence is generally weaker than before. However, the social practice approach adopted in the book highlights how this influence is contextually contingent: how disciplines are deployed in different ways for different purposes and with varying degrees of purchase. This important book pulls together the latest thinking on the subject and offers a new framework for conceptualising the influences on academic practices in universities. It brings together a distinguished group of scholars from across the world to address questions such as: Have disciplines been displaced by inter-disciplinarity having outlived their usefulness? Have other forces acting on the academy pushed disciplines into the background as factors shaping the practices of academics and students there? How significant are disciplinary differences in teaching and research practices? What is their significance in other areas of work in universities? This timely book addresses a pressing concern in modern education and will be of great interest to university professionals, managers and policy makers in the field of higher education.

The Academic Profession in Europe: New Tasks and New Challenges Barbara M. Kehm, Ulrich Teichler, 2012-08-21. This book is the first of several with the results of a collaborative European project supported by the European Science Foundation on changes in the academic profession in Europe (EUROAC). It provides a short description of the ESF EUROHESC programme and the particular forms of international collaborative research projects which are funded under the umbrella of this programme. It then outlines the EUROAC project. This project has chosen three foci: governance, professionalisation, academic careers, to analyse changes in the work of the academic profession. The first results in the form of in-depth literature reviews constitute the content of the book. These eight literature reviews about the state of the art of existing research feature the various dimensions of the overall theme. A particular emphasis is put on factors leading to changes in the work tasks of the academic profession in Europe and how the academic profession is coping with these new challenges. Thus, the book provides a state of the art account of existing research about the following themes: main results of previous studies on the academic profession; the academic profession and their interaction with new higher education professionals; professional identities in higher education; extending work tasks; civic mission and sustainable development; academic careers in academic markets; the changing role of academics in the face of rising managerialism; the influence of quality assurance, governance and relevance on the satisfaction of the academic profession.

Academic Tribes and Territories Tony Becher, Paul Trowler, 2001. Acclaim for the first edition of Academic Tribes and Territories. There is here an education to be had. Burton R. Clark, Higher Education. Becher's landmark work. The higher education community, both practitioners and educational researchers, need to assimilate and to heed the message of this important and insightful book. Alan E.
