Social and Economic Transformation in East Central Europe Terry Cox, Bob Mason, 1999 This book focuses not only on economic and political transformation since the demise of communism in Eastern and Central Europe but also on the relationships between economic organization social patterns and institutional change The changes in political structure and policies of economic reform have in turn resulted in changes in social institutions and patterns of social relations The authors look at social relations under the old regimes to understand the current social transformation They consider economic restructuring both in the context of social change and in terms of its consequences for society using case studies from the Czech Republic

Hungary and Poland The impact of economic changes on new forms of institutional arrangements social patterns and organization are also discussed taking into account privatization employment social welfare property and industrial relations This new book will be welcomed by economists political scientists and sociologists working in the area of transition The Globalized City Frank Moulaert, Arantxa Rodriguez, Erik Swyngedouw, 2003-03-27 This book explores the dynamics that have accompanied the implementation of large scale Urban Development Projects UDPs in nine European cities within the European Union EU It contributes to the analysis of the relationship between urban restructuring and social exclusion integration in the context of the emergence of the European wide new regimes of urban governance These regimes reflect the reawakening of neo liberal policy and the rise of a New Urban Policy favouring private investments and deregulation of property and labour markets The selected UDPs further reflect global pressures and changing systems of local regional and or national regulation and governance These projects while being decidedly local capture global trends and new national and local policies as they are expressed in particular institutional forms and strategic practices The large scale urban interventions were deliberately chosen as reflections of a particular hegemonic and dominant expression of urban policy as pursued during the 1990s The book provides a panoramic view of urban change in some of Europe s greatest cities The nine case studies include The Europeanization of Brussels The Guggenheim museum in Bilbao the new financial district in Dublin the science university technology complex Adlershof in Berlin the 1998 World Expo in Lisbon Athens s bid to stage the Olympic Games Vienna s Donau City Copenhagen s Oresund project and Naples new business district These case studies testify to the unshakable belief the city elites hold in the healing effects that the production of new urban mega projects and events has on their city s vitality and development potential The book also analyses the down side of this development in terms of social exclusion the formation of new urban elites and the consolidation of less democratic forms of urban governance The principal aim is to show how the production of these new urban spaces is actually also part of the production of a new polity a new economy and new forms of living urban life that are not very promising for a socially harmonious and just future for metropolitan urban Europe Projects of Urban Identity Reinvention in Post-Soviet Riga, Latvia, 1991-2004 David Waskowski, 2006 Europa dwadzieścia jedna, 2005 Residential Change and Demographic Challenge Annett Steinführer, Sigrun Kabisch, Katrin Grossmann, 2016-04-08 Going beyond the assumption that East Central European cities are still in transition this book draws on the postsocialism paradigm to ask new questions about the impact of demographic change on residential developments in this region Focussing on four second order cities in this region it examines Gdansk and L dz in Poland and Brno and Ostrava in the Czech Republic as examples and deals with the nexus between urban development and demographic change for the context of East Central European cities It provides a framework for linking urban and demographic research It discusses how residential areas and urban developments cope with changes in population development household types and different forms of in and out migration and goes on to explore parallels and differences in comparison with broader European patterns This book will be useful to academics of urban planning and development especially in transition areas Central and Eastern European studies demographics and population studies and sociology social exclusion The Spatial Impact of Economic Changes in Europe William Lever, Antoine Bailly, 1996 The economies of Europe are changing rapidly More and more employment and output comes from the service sector less employment is to be found in agriculture mining and manufacturing although output has been sustained Economies have deindustrialised the environment has improved the large factories have been broken up into networks of smaller enterprises products production and labour have all become more flexible This book examines these processes of economic change in western Europe in southern Europe and in east central Europe These changes bring problems as well as opportunities Unemployed manual workers are not re employed in the service sector there is increased social and economic polarisation Europe has suffered from the increasing levels of international competition The final section of the book concerns policy intervention to tackle some of these problems Policies for equity efficiency and environmental protection are examined as are the policy framework and the political basis for policy BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved City Images and Urban Regeneration Frank Eckardt, Peter Kreisl, 2004 Most of the studies represented here are the result of an international workshop at the Bauhaus University Weimar October 2002 when the European Urban Research Association and the Forschungs und Entwicklungsgesellschaft Hessen GmbH FEH joined the University Page 13

European Spatial Research and Policy, 2008 Twenty Years of Transition Sonia Hirt, 2009 The Process of Territorial Cohesion in Europe Luisa Pedrazzini, 2006 Housing Change in East and Central Europe Stuart Lowe, S. Tsenkova, 2003 Ten years after the fall of the Berlin Wall patterns of change to the former communist nations of Europe are now discernible in a way that was impossible to see in the initial years This insightful book focuses on the case of changes in housing based on evidence collected from across the Central and Eastern European region The volume adopts a conceptual framework and provides cross regional analysis amongst which is situated a series of more focused case studies Issues examined include the consequences of the rapid privatization of state rental housing including the emergence of super owner occupied countries dramatic changes in urban structure and evidence that housing having been the shock absorber against which wider economic restructuring has occurred now faces a whole series of deferred problems The enthusiasm with which the market economy was initially embraced must now be tempered by a more sober assessment of what in reality has happened Budapest Review of Books, 1997
