Social Class And The Divison Of Labour:

Social Class and the Division of Labour Anthony Giddens, Gavin MacKenzie, 1983-01-20 The problems of class analysis and the division of labour in industrial societies are of fundamental importance in the social sciences Designed as a testimonial volume for Ilya Neustadt Social Class and the Division of Labour provides a comprehensive discussion of the central issues of this debate All the essays in this volume attempt to integrate theoretical debate and empirical investigation some focus directly on the division of labour considering especially Marxist views of its relation to class domination while others are more concerned with the labour process as it currently exists in capitalist productions The volume as a whole demonstrates forcibly that class divisions and class conflict can only be properly understood in conjunction with an elaborated analysis of the division of labour The book represents a major contribution to class theory and analysis which will attract considerable attention amongst sociologists and economists and become a standard textbook for undergraduates in these subjects

Social Classes in Marxist Theory Allin Cottrell, 2019-11-19 First published in 1984 This study critically examines the conceptions of social class employed by Marx and by modern Marxist writers to probe their problematic areas and to propose certain modifications to those conception The author also tests the conclusions deriving from this theoretical reflection against the task of analysing some aspects of the development of class relations in a particular social formation in Britain This title will be of interest to students of philosophy and politics

The Two Psychiatries Harley D. Dickinson, 1989 Examines the changing nature and organization of psychiatric work in Saskatchewan since the beginning of this century and the establishment and growth of two increasingly separate psychiatric service systems The medical system is grounded in the claim that mental illness exists and that its etiology is to be found in the malfunctioning of some physiological biochemical or genetic system The non medical system is grounded in the claim that much if not most of what is termed mental illness is not illness at all but psychosocial problems in living that manifest themselves as mental or emotion disorders This publication studies the way in which this dispute over the proper definition care and treatment of mental illnesses and disorders manifested itself in the institutional transformation of psychiatric work

Socialist and Self-Reliance In Tanzania Kimse A.B. Okoko,2024-11-01 This study developed from a keen interest in the politics of contemporary Africa especially in regard to the seemingly intractable problem of political dependence with its economic correlate of underdevelopment The most interesting contemporary work on African political economy explores the link between economic underdevelopment and political dependence Development and independence are seen as moving in the same direction in the long run even if in the short run there appear to be inherent contradictions in their immediate needs in a concrete situation The focus of this work emphasizes the internal contradictions such as exist between the bureaucracy and the political leadership within Tanzania rather than the external linkages
