Sourcebook Of Social Support And Personality:

Sourcebook of Social Support and Personality Gregory R. Pierce, Brian Lakey, I.G. Sarason, 2013-11-11 The work of 47 contributors from the U S Canada and Israel the Sourcebook gives special attention to the complexity of the social support construct expanding the field s theoretical base by seriously reappraising social support research in the context of findings from other fields of psychology and related disciplines Personality processes are specified to account for observed associations between social support and physical well being Several new studies are included which illustrate empirical approaches to exploring these processes And key contributions highlight the great strides made in understanding the links among personal dispositions situational contexts and potentially supportive transactions Social Support Measurement and Intervention Sheldon Cohen, Lynn G. Underwood, Benjamin H. Gottlieb, 2000 The information provided on both measurement and intervention will also be valuable to practitioners interested in designing and evaluating prevention and treatment initiatives BOOK JACKET Loss and Trauma John Harvey, Eric Miller, 2021-12-16 Given the relationship between trauma loss and interpersonal bonds the editors have assembled a noteworthy list of contributions discussing trauma associated with close relationships divorce infertility widowhood Certainly trauma is closely associated with loss This edited volume offers the perspective of over twenty leading scholars in the study of trauma and loss Each chapter offers extensive coverage of contemporary issues terror management rational suicide spirituality stigmatization Relationship issues within these topics are also explored Social Psychological Foundations of Clinical Psychology James E. Maddux, June Price Tangney, 2011-04-14 Uniquely integrative and authoritative this volume explores how advances in social psychology can deepen understanding and improve treatment of clinical problems The role of basic psychological processes in mental health and disorder is examined by leading experts in social clinical and counseling psychology Chapters present cutting edge research on self and identity self regulation interpersonal processes social cognition and emotion The volume identifies specific ways that social psychology concepts findings and research methods can inform clinical assessment and diagnosis as well as the development of effective treatments Compelling topics include the social psychology of help seeking therapeutic change and the therapist client relationship The Measurement and Health Outcomes of Social Support Keiko Anne Taga, 2006 Social Support Effectiveness Christine Marie Rini, 2001 The Effects of Social Support on Mothers' Parenting Self-efficacy in Japan Sawako Suzuki, 2005 The Optimal Matching of Perceived Teacher Social Support to Students' Daily School Stressors Laura Jane Dilly, 2005 Supervisory Social Support and the Multi-level Performance in the Thai Health Centers Duchduen Bhanthumnavin, 2001 The Impact of Cultural Orientation on the Relationship Between Social Support and Psychological Well-being Sinead Natasha Younge, 2002 The Cumulative Book Index ,1998 A world list of books in the English language Computers in Human Behavior ,2002 Literature Reviews in Sport Psychology Sheldon Hanton, 2006 Sport Psychology research has developed and expanded considerably over the last decade or two Its accelerating volume of research output embraces a wide variety of topics having both academic and practical impact and relating to other areas of Sports Science and also the broader overall discipline of mainstream psychology In this busy and developing arena the healthy and productive evolution of a research topic requires the periodic summarisation reflection and feedback that is the domain of the literature review A review acts as the primary catalyst for a topic s emerging organisation reorganisation and structure and generates perspectives and pointers for further study directions it establishes reference points and foundations for continued progress By its very nature it tends to be a larger publication than a typical focused research paper The pathways to publication of Sport Psychology research are often severely congested For example in 2004 four of the main refereed outlets for original research in Sport Psychology The Sport Psychologist the Journal of Applied Sport Psychology the Journal of Sport and Exercise Psychology and the Psychology of Sport and Exercise received over 400 submissions private communications Inevitably the space that established journals can afford to grant to review articles is limited both in terms of the article size and the frequency with which topics can be visited Although reviews that appear in books usually enjoy a larger and more appropriate space allocation they typically have not carried the hallmark of external independent peer review that journal publication provides This collection presents a number of contemporary reviews of significant and popular topics from some prominent researchers within each area An important and distinctive feature of this volume is that all the chapters have been subjected to peer review by expert referees a process usually reserved solely for journal publications This book offers up to date literature reviews with a distinctive conceptual theoretical and practical focus

Social Interaction and Well-being

Across the Life Course Karen D. Lincoln, 2002 This dissertation examines the relative contributions of positive and negative interaction with social networks for psychological well being among Black and white adults across the life course This dissertation follows the multiple manuscript format and employs data from the Americans Changing Lives Study ACL and the National Comorbidity Survey NCS Structural equation modeling is used to examine the interrelations between stress personal and social resources and psychological well being Specifically this dissertation examines 1 the relative contribution of positive and negative interaction for psychological well being while taking into account the influence of personality 2 personal control and mastery as mediators in the relationship between social interaction and psychological well being 3 the role of social interaction in the stress process and 4 positive and negative interaction as mediators of the impact of stress on psychological well being Findings indicated different models of these relationships for African Americans and whites Overall positive interaction was a stronger predictor of psychological well being for African Americans whereas negative interaction was a stronger predictor of psychological well being for whites Personal control and mastery were identified as important mediators in the relationship between negative interaction and psychological well being for African Americans whites and older adults Financial strain and traumatic events were associated with a decline in positive interaction for whites and older adults but not for African Americans Finally negative interaction contributed to the impact of financial strain and traumatic events on psychological well being for whites but not for African Americans or older adults Together these results provide a comprehensive model of the social support process and contribute to our understanding of the role of social networks in promoting well being The International Journal of Aging & Human Development ,2006 Handbook of Research Methods in Clinical Psychology Philip C.
