Hashimoto, Van-Trao Nguyen, 2018-05-16 Why has English language proficiency in Japan remained so low in comparison to other Asian countries Has Vietnam attempted to improve English language teaching because ASEAN has adopted English as its working language Why do English language teachers struggle with curriculum changes imposed by governments in order to make them competitive in the international community Do professional development PD programs actually meet the needs of teachers This book addresses issues surrounding these questions by examining how the Japanese and Vietnamese governments have approached and defined the PD of English language teachers and how such PD programs have been delivered It further analyses the impact of policy changes on individual teachers and explores how PD can help teachers to implement such changes effectively at the micro level PD of language teachers or language teacher education is relatively new as a field of inquiry in Applied Linguistics By including case studies of Japan and Vietnam in the one volume this book embarks on the challenging task of demonstrating that PD is an essential element of the successful implementation of

, 1976-07 Life Stages, Gender, and Fertility in Bangladesh K. M. Ashraful Aziz, 1985 This pioneering study describes the psychological development and gender role expectations in the various life stages of an individual in Bangladeshi culture and relates these stages to sexual and reproductive behavior The authors both anthropologists examined the topical life histories of 65 male and female respondents from 5 contiguous villages in Matlab Thana These personal histories form the basis for chapters on stages of life childhood and psychosexual development adolescence and gender roles adulthood and gender roles sexual relations outside marriage range of sexual behavior and reciprocal relationships within the life cycle Then fertility is examined from an anthropological perspective in the final chapters on cultural factors and fertility fertility control and the stages of life traditional communication and knowledge of sex and family life education At least half of the life history respondents expressed support for family planning and modern methods Maximum fertility is prevented in the 2nd half of women s reproductive years by traditional mechanisms such as self restraint absence of spouse occasional abstention and rhythm The use of modern contraception is supported on the grounds of avoiding economic hardship maintaining mental peace and leading a happy life The most useful approach for family planning field workers seems to be to get to know the men of the village in public places then the older women and finally the young women establishing at each stage the confidence and fictive kinship relationship appropriate In this way communication is possible without challenging deeply rooted distinctions of gender roles and life stages
