Information Bulletin, 1944      Sea birds and others of the south Pacific and Great Barrier Reef Neville Coleman, Conspicuous Birds of the South Pacific (Classic Reprint) Ken Stott Jr, 2017-10-27 Excerpt from Conspicuous Birds of the South Pacific Although there is little external similarity between the emus and cassowaries and the diminutive kiwis of New Zealand there is a definite relationship In size the kiwis might be compared with domestic fowl but there all similarity ceases Their bodies are gourd shaped and their bills are long and tapering Their relationship to the larger members of their group is indicated by relatively thick and powerful legs Likewise the plumage is hairlike and the wings are rudimentary The general body color is brown or gray brown About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works      Islands of Inquiry Geoffrey Richard Clark, Sue O'Connor, Bryan Foss Leach, 2008-06-01 Many of the papers in this volume present new and innovative research into the processes of maritime colonisation processes that affect archaeological contexts from islands to continents Others shift focus from process to the archaeology of maritime places from the Bering to the Torres Straits providing highly detailed discussions of how living by and with the sea is woven into all elements of human life from subsistence to trade and to ritual Of equal importance are more abstract discussions of islands as natural places refashioned by human occupation either through the introduction of new organisms or new systems of production and consumption These transformation stories gain further texture and variety through close examinations of some of the more significant consequences of colonisation and migration particularly the creation of new cultural identities A final set of papers explores the ways in which the techniques of archaeological sciences have provided insights into the fauna of the islands and the human history of such places Provided by publisher
