Jr. and C. Hugh Holman Rubin, C. Hugh Holman, 1975

Keywords for Southern Studies Scott Romine, Jennifer Rae Greeson, 2016-08-15 In Keywords for Southern Studies editors Scott Romine and Jennifer Rae Greeson have compiled an eclectic collection of new essays that address the fluidity of southern studies by adopting a transnational interdisciplinary focus The essays are structured around critical terms pertinent both to the field and to modern life in general The nonbinary nontraditional approach of Keywords unmask and refutes standard binary thinking First World Third World self other for instance that postcolonial studies revealed as a flawed rhetorical structure for analyzing empire Instead Keywords promotes a holistic way of thinking that begins with southern studies but extends beyond The Female Tradition in Southern Literature Carol S. Manning, 1993 This collection of critical essays examines the contributions to and influences on literature that have been made by Southern women writers From publisher description Superfluous Southerners John J. Langdale, III, 2012-11-01 In Superfluous Southerners John J Langdale III tells the story of traditionalist conservatism and its boundaries in twentieth century America Because this time period encompasses both the rise of the modern conservative movement and the demise of southern regional distinctiveness it affords an ideal setting both for observing the potentiality of American conservatism and for understanding the fate of the traditionalist man of letters Langdale uses the intellectual and literary histories of John Crowe Ransom Donald Davidson and Allen Tate the three principal contributors to the Agrarian manifesto I'll Take My Stand and of their three most remarkable intellectual descendants Cleanth Brooks Richard Weaver and Melvin Bradford to explore these issues Langdale begins his study with some observations on the nature of American exceptionalism and the intrinsic barriers which it presents to the traditionalist conservative imagination While works like Louis Menand's The Metaphysical Club have traced the origins of modern pragmatic liberalism during the late nineteenth century the nature of conservative thought in postbellum America remains less completely understood Accordingly Langdale considers the origins of the New Humanism movement at the turn of the twentieth century then turning to the manner in which midwesterners Irving Babbitt and Paul Elmer Moore stirred the imagination of the southern Agrarians during the 1920s After the publication of I'll Take My Stand in 1930 Agrarianism splintered into three distinct modes of traditionalist conservatism John Crowe Ransom sought refuge in literary criticism Donald Davidson in sectionalism and Allen Tate in an image of the religious wayfarer as a custodian of language Langdale traces the expansion of these modes of traditionalism by succeeding generations of southerners Following World War II Cleanth Brooks further refined the tradition of literary criticism while Richard Weaver elaborated the tradition of sectionalism However both Brooks and Weaver distinctively furthered Tate's notion that the integrity of language remained the fundamental concern of traditionalist conservatism Langdale concludes his study with a consideration of neoconservative opposition to M E Bradford's proposed 1980 nomination as head of the National Endowment for the Humanities and its significance for the southern man of letters in what was becoming postmodern and postsouthern America Though the post World War II ascendance of neoconservatism drastically altered American intellectual history the descendants of traditionalism remained largely superfluous to this purportedly conservative revival which had far more in common with pragmatic liberalism than with normative conservatism Nineteenth-Century Southern Literature J. V. Ridgely, 2021-12-14

Few inhabitants of the South in 1800 thought of it as a region or of themselves as southerners In time the need to defend the entire southern way of life became obsessive for many writers too often precluding efforts at originality in form or style Especially after the publication of Uncle Tom's Cabin southern identity and southern nationalism emerged as the grand themes and literature became subservient to regional interests The devastation of the Civil War and the collapse of the Confederacy instead of pointing southern writers in new directions only intensified their preoccupation with a now dead past The popular genres of the time historical romance and local color writing became tools to voice this preoccupation and have been important influences on America's view of the South and on American literature in general The myth of the idyllic plantation South has had an extraordinary pervasiveness in the American consciousness J V Ridgely speculates on the ways in which this tarnished but durable myth helped to produce the powerful Southern Renaissance of the twentieth century in this concise survey of the literature of America's most distinctive region during a crucial formative period Rethinking the South Michael O'Brien, 1993

Bringing together Michael O'Brien's pathbreaking essays on the American South this book examines the persistence and vitality of southern intellectual history from the early nineteenth century to the present day At once a broad survey of southern thought and a meditation on the subject as an academic discipline Rethinking the South deftly integrates social history literary criticism and historiography as it positions the South within the wider traditions of European and American culture In his thoughtful introduction and throughout the ten essays that follow O'Brien stresses the tradition of Romanticism as a central theme binding together figures as disparate as critic Hugh Legare literary scholar Edwin Mims poets Richard Henry Wilde and Allen Tate and historians W J Cash and C Vann Woodward First published as a collection in 1988 these essays confirm O'Brien's position as a pioneer in establishing and defining the enterprise of southern intellectual history     Contemporary Southern Men Fiction Writers Rosemary M. Canfield Reisman, Suzanne Booker-Canfield, 1998 This carefully annotated bibliography lists sources of criticism for thirty nine Southern male authors each of whom has published at least one significant book of fiction between 1970 and 1994     The Southern Quarterly ,1984

    The Virginia Quarterly Review ,1927     Allegory and the Modern Southern Novel Jan Whitt, 1994 Explores how Southern writers have depicted their characters fraught with an awareness of human frailty and burdened with guilt showing the basis of that depiction in Christian imagery and Old Testament views about God and humanity which are far from the American myth of opulence and innocence Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR     Old Ways Not Forgotten
