Southern Writers And Their Worlds:

Southern Writers and Their Worlds Christopher Morris, Susan A. Eacker, 1998-04-01 In this brilliant collection five historians and literary critics explore the many ways that southern writers influence and are influenced by their region Christopher Morris examines the relationship between economic development and the humor of such Old Southwestern writers as Augustus B Longstreet and Johnson Jones Hooper while Susan A Eacker explains how South Carolina author Louisa McCord came to defend slavery Anne Goodwyn Jones offers a penetrating deconstruction of gender in the southern literary renaissance Charles Joyner reassesses William Styron's controversial decision to write The Confessions of Nat Turner in the first person and Bertram Wyatt Brown reveals the connection between depression and literary creativity Presenting interdisciplinary topics within a broad chronological range this remarkable work will be of interest to all students of southern literature and history

World War I and Southern Modernism David A. Davis, 2017-11-27 Winner of the 2018 Eudora Welty Prize When the United States entered World War I parts of the country had developed industries urban cultures and democratic political systems but the South lagged behind remaining an impoverished agriculture region Despite New South boosterism the culture of the early twentieth century South was comparatively artistically arid Yet southern writers dominated the literary marketplace by the 1920s and 1930s World War I brought southerners into contact with modernity before the South fully modernized This shortfall created an inherent tension between the region's existing agricultural social structure and the processes of modernization leading to distal modernism a form of writing that combines elements of modernism to depict non modern social structures Critics have struggled to formulate explanations for the eruption of modern southern literature sometimes called the Southern Renaissance Pinpointing World War I as the catalyst David A Davis argues southern modernism was not a self generating outburst of writing but a response to the disruptions modernity generated in the region In World War I and Southern Modernism Davis examines dozens of works of literature by writers including William Faulkner Ellen Glasgow and Claude McKay that depict the South during the war Topics explored in the book include contact between the North and the South southerners who served in combat and the developing southern economy Davis also provides a new lens for this argument taking a closer look at African Americans in the military and changing gender roles

Strange and Lurid Bloom Anne M. Boyle, 2002 Caroline Gordon regarded as a minor figure of the Southern Renaissance was enviosned as a writer sometimes as a mother but most often as a wife to Allen Tate and as a hostess and novelist who entertained and sometimes mentored artists visiting their home in Tennessee This critical interpretation assesses Caroline Gordon's early struggles to gain voice and respect as a writer her tendency to explore themes of sexual and racial tension and the strange and lurid bloom of Gordon's genius

Richard Wright Keneth Kinnamon, 2014-11-04 African American writer Richard Wright 1908 1960 was celebrated during the early 1940s for his searing autobiography Black Boy and fiction Native Son By 1947 he felt so unwelcome in his homeland that he exiled himself and his family in Paris But his writings changed American culture forever and today they are mainstays of literature and composition classes He and his works are also the subjects of numerous critical essays and commentaries by contemporary writers This volume presents a comprehensive annotated bibliography of those essays books and articles from 1983 through 2003 Arranged alphabetically by author within years are some 8 320 entries ranging from unpublished dissertations to book length studies of African American literature and literary criticism Also included as an appendix are addenda to the author s earlier bibliography covering the years from 1934 through 1982 This is the exhaustive reference for serious students of Richard Wright and his critics
