Lennart Samuelson

Soviet Defence Industry:

The Soviet Defence Industry Complex from Stalin to Krushchev J. Barber, M. Harrison, 1999-12-08 The huge complex of Soviet institutions and enterprises specialised in military production powerfully influenced the course of the twentieth century through resistance to imperial Japan the defeat of Nazi Germany and nuclear stalemate with America in the Cold War Based on collaborative research by Russian and British scholars in the hitherto secret archives of the Soviet government party and armed forces this book is a pioneering investigation of the economic dynamics and social and political significance of Soviet defence

The Soviet Defence Industry Julian Cooper, 1991 Reviews the changes in the Soviet defence industry since perestroika and how they are complicated by economic uncertainty and the new political assertiveness of many republics Discusses the political role of the military industrial complex and possible business opportunities for the West

The Soviet Defence Industry Julian Cooper, 1991 Guns and Rubles Mark Harrison, 2008-10-01 Previously unknown details about Stalin's command system come to light in this book as do fascinating insights into the relations between Soviet public and private sectors Focusing on various aspects of the defence industry this volume uncovers information on the inner workings of Stalin's dictatorship

The Soviet Defence Industry and Conversion Julian Cooper, 1989 The Soviet Defence Industry Complex from Stalin to Khrushchev John Barber, Mark Harrison, 2000 Red Forge Peter Almquist, 1990 Examines the Soviet defence industry since 1965 especially the views of certain specialists the weapons designers and scientists and ministry officials

Conversion of the Defense Industry in the Former Soviet Union Thierry Malleret, 1992 This book provides an overview of the process of conversion from military to civilian production in the USSR since 1988 The author analyzes the economic and technological structure in which conversion operates reviews the history of conversion and why it has not succeeded taking into account the recent disintegration of the USSR and suggests practical measures to be implemented in a genuine shift from military to civilian production

Soviet Defence Industry Planning Lennart Samuelson, 1996 Soviet Defence Industry Reform Karen Ballentine, Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security, 1991 In December 1988 Mikhail Gorbachev made the issue of defence industry conversion part of the Official Perestroika Agenda This document discusses the case for conversion conversion without reform and barriers to conversion and the Soviet system

The Structure of the Defense Industry Nicole Ball, Milton Leitenberg, 2021-05-30 Proponents of arms control and disarmament are often confronted with the argument that reductions in defense expenditure lead to cutbacks in military industries and thus to economic hardship While a reduction in defense production would cause some economic dislocation this would be mitigated by the ability of the economy to adapt to changing patterns of production This book first published in 1983 assesses the likely effects of reductions in defense industries by an examination of the roles these industries play in national economies Each chapter discusses industry employment output research and development capital value profitability concentration and competition internal organization and regional employment concentration Other questions considered include the economic importance of weapons exports the defense industry as a leading edge in maintaining national technological capabilities and the reliance of individual firms on defense contracting

The Soviet Defence Industry, 1991

The Anatomy of Russian Defense Conversion Vlad E. Genin (general editor), Vladimir Efimovich Genin, William J. Perry, 2001 Institute for International Studies Stanford University Stanford California Morrison Institute for Population and Resource Studies Stanford University Stanford California

The Economics of the Global Defence Industry Keith Hartley, Jean Belin, 2019-11-08 This book makes an original contribution to our knowledge of the world's major defence industries. Experts from a wide range of different countries from the major economies of North America and Western Europe to developing economies and some unique cases such as China, India, Singapore, South Africa and North Korea describe and analyse the structure, conduct and performance of the defence industry in that country. Each chapter opens with statistics on a key nation's defence spending, its spending on defence R D and on procurement over the period 1980 to 2017, allowing for an analysis of industry changes following the end of the Cold War. After the facts of each industry, the authors describe and analyse the structure, conduct and performance of the industry. The analysis of structure includes discussions of entry conditions, domestic monopoly, oligopoly structures and opportunities for competition. The section on conduct analyses price, non-price competition, including private and state-funded R D and performance, incorporates profitability, imports and exports together with spin-offs and technical progress. The conclusion explores the future prospects for each nation's defence industry: Do defence industries have a future? What might the future defence firm and industry look like in 50 years time? This volume is a vital resource and reference for anyone interested in defence economics, industrial economics, international relations, strategic studies and public procurement.
