Textiles In Archaeology:

Textiles in Archaeology John Peter Wild, 1988 Growing enthusiasm for handspinning and weaving as studio crafts and increasing awareness of the value of organic materials have led to wider interest in archaeological textiles Although textiles are not common finds textile implements are and this book shows how both contribute to our appreciation of a universal ancient craft Geographically this book is concerned with Britain and Europe and in time ranges from the neolithic to the medieval period The processes of spinning and weaving are explained and illustrated and the reader is taken through early textile manufacture Unusual textile terms are explained and illustrated in a glossary Beyond Cloth and Cordage Penelope B. Drooker, Laurie D. Webster, 2000 Textiles and clothing provide critical clues to ethnic and social identity relationships and trends The editors introduction to a dozen papers situates the prime role of textile research in modern American archeology and overviews types and locations of the textile record and diverse methodological and theoretical approaches Includes cases studies numerous bandw illustrations and tables on such parameters as photographic and electron micrograph details of prehistoric fabrics the amount of fiber specimens required for different radiocarbon testing methods and the distribution of particular textiles a glossary and 44 pages of references Drooker is with the New York State Museum in Albany Webster works at the Arizona State Museum at the U of Arizona in Tucson Based on a 1997 Society for American Archeology symposium Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Textiles in Ritual and Cultic Practices in the Ancient Near East from the Third to the First Millennium BC Salvatore Gaspa, Matteo Vigo, 2019-09-01 The workshop aims at presenting current research on textual iconographical and archaeological evidence for the use of textiles in ritual and cult in the Ancient Near East The main purpose is to address questions related to the use of raw materials garments of ritual performers and cult images textile tools in ritual and cultic practices as well as textile metaphors and analogical formulas in rituals Exploring Ancient Textiles Alistair Dickey, Margarita Gleba, Sarah Hitchens, Gabriella Longhitano, 2022-07-20 Over the past 30 years research on archaeological textiles has developed into an important field of scientific study It has greatly benefited from interdisciplinary approaches which combine the application of advanced technological knowledge to ethnographic textual and experimental investigations In exploring textiles and textile processing such as production and exchange in ancient societies archaeologists with different types and quality of data have shared their knowledge thus contributing to well established methodology In this book the papers highlight how researchers have been challenged to adapt or modify these traditional and more recently developed analytical methods to enable extraction of comparable data from often recalcitrant assemblages Furthermore they have applied new perspectives and approaches to extend the focus on less investigated aspects and artefacts The chapters embrace a broad geographical and chronological area ranging from South America and Europe to Africa and from the 11th millennium BC to the 1st millennium AD Methodological considerations are explored through the medium of three different themes focusing on tools textiles and fibres and culture and identity This volume constitutes a reflection on the status of current methodology and its applicability within the wider textile field Moreover it drives forward the methodological debates around textile research to generate new and stimulating conversations about the future of textile archaeology Textile Production and Consumption in the Ancient Near East Marie-Louise Nosch, Henriette Koefoed, Eva Andersson Strand, 2013-01-11 In the past textile production was a key part of all ancient societies The Ancient Near East stands out in this respect with the overwhelming amount of documentation both in terms of raw materials line of production and the distribution of finished products The thirteen intriguing chapters in Textile Production and Consumption in the Ancient Near East describe the developments and changes from household to standardised industrialised and centralised productions which take place in the region They discuss the economic social and cultural impact of textiles on ancient society through the application of textile tool studies experimental testing context studies and epigraphical as well as iconographical sources Together they demonstrate that the textile industries production technology consumption and innovations are crucial to and therefore provide an in depth view of ancient societies during this period Geographically the contributions cover Anatolia the Levant Syria the Assyrian heartland Sumer and Egypt A Brief Guide to the Cataloguing of Archaeological Textiles Penelope Walton, Gillian Eastwood, 1988 Ancient Textiles Marie-Louise Nosch, C. Gillis, 2007-03-10 An understanding of textiles and the role they played in the past is important for anyone interested in past societies Textiles served and in fact still do as both functional and symbolic items The evidence for ancient textiles in Europe is split quite definitely along a north south divide with an abundance of actual examples in the north but precious little in the south where indirect evidence comes from such things as vase painting and frescoes This volume brings together these two schools to look in more detail at textiles in the ancient world and is based on a conference held in Denmark and Sweden in March 2003 Section one Production and Organisation takes a chronological look through more than four thousand years of history from Syria in the mid third millennium BC to Seventeenth Century Germany Section two Crafts and Technology focuses on the relationship between the primary producer the craftsman and the secondary receiver the archaeologist conservator The third section Society examines the symbolic nature of textiles and their place within ancient societal groups Throughout the book emphasis is placed on the universality of textiles and the importance of information exchange between scholars from different disciplines A small book on finds First Aid for the Excavation of Archaeological Textiles is included as an Appendix Multidisciplinary Approaches for the Investigation of Textiles and Fibres in the Archaeological Field Francesca Coletti, Christina Margariti, Vanessa Forte, Stella Spantidaki, 2024-11-15 This book is dedicated to the analytical methods and approaches applied to ancient textiles and fibres It offers an overview of textile archaeology as an archaeological discipline presenting its history and developments up to state of the art approaches in the study of textiles fibres It demonstrates how various fields of research have contributed to the development and growth of the discipline It establishes that fibre identification is a key element in ancient textile studies showing its importance in understanding a large variety of economic and social aspects of human societies However fibre identification in archaeological textiles is not a straightforward task mainly due to the vast variety of fibres people used in antiquity to make textiles and the more often than not poor condition of preservation of excavated textiles Currently comprehensive studies on more traditional fibre identification techniques such as Scanning Electron and Optical microscopy spectroscopic techniques e g Fourier Transform Infrared spectroscopy FTIR Raman and recent advances in DNA and paleoproteomics along with experiments on artificial ageing and deterioration of textiles constitute a promising path down the exploration and analysis of archaeological textiles This book shows how these techniques have advanced the discipline of textile archaeology and contributed to our understanding of the past This volume brings together scholars investigating fibres in a holistic way by the incorporation of a variety of methods in order to improve the current methodological approaches in the study and conservation of textiles and related material Chapter 6 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com

North European Symposium for Archaeological Textiles X Eva B. Andersson Strand, Margarita Gleba, Ulla Mannering, Cherine Munkholt, Maj Ringgard, 2009-12-11 The NESAT symposium has grown from the first meeting in 1981 which was attended by 23 scholars to over 100 at the tenth meeting that took place in Copenhagen in 2008 with virtually all areas of Europe represented The 50 papers from the conference presented here show the vibrance of the study of archaeological textiles today Examples studied come from the Bronze Age Neolithic the Iron Age Roman Viking the Middle Ages and post Medieval and from a wide range of countries including Norway Czech Republic Poland Greece Germany Lithuania Estonia and the Netherlands Modern techniques of analysis and examination are also discussed

Prehistoric Textiles E. J.W. Barber, 1991 This monograph attempts to revise present ideas of the origins and early development of textiles in Europe and the Near East Using linguistic techniques as well as methods from palaeobiology it demonstrates that spinning and pattern weaving existed far earlier than has been supposed

Northern Archaeological Textiles Frances Pritchard, John Peter Wild, 2015-04-30 This volume presents the papers from the seventh North European Symposium for Archaeological Textiles NESAT held in Edinburgh in 1999 The themes covered demonstrate a variety of scholarship that will encourage anyone working in this important and stimulating area of archaeology From the golden robes of a Roman burial to the fashionable Viking in Denmark through to the early modern period and more technological aspects of textile research these twenty four papers five of which are in German provide a wealth of new information on the study of ancient textiles in northern Europe

Ancient Textile Production from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Agata Ulanowska, Karina Grömer, Ina Vanden Berghe, Magdalena Öhrman, 2022-04-29 The diverse developments in textile research of the last decade along with the increased recognition of the importance of textile studies in adjacent fields now merit a dedicated full length publication entitled Ancient Textile Production from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Humanities and Natural Sciences Interwoven for our Understanding of Textiles With this volume the authors and the editors wish to illustrate to the current impact of textile archaeology on the scholarly perception of the past not limited to archaeology alone The volume presents new insights into the consumption meaning use and re use of textiles and dyes all of which are topics of growing importance in textile research As indicated by the title we demonstrate the continued importance of interdisciplinarity by showcasing several interwoven approaches to environmental and archaeological remains textual and iconographic sources archaeological experiments and ethnographic data from a large area covering Europe and the Mediterranean Near East Africa and Asia The chronological span is deliberately wide including materials dating from c 6th millennium BCE to c mid 14th century CE The volume is organised in four parts that aim to reflect the main areas of the textile research in 2020 After the two introductory chapters Part I About this Volume and Textile Research in 2020 follow two chapters referring to dyes and dyeing technology in which analytical and material based studies are linked to contextual sources Part II Interdisciplinarity of Colour Dye Analyses and Dyeing Technologies The six chapters of Part III Interdisciplinary Approaches to Textile Tools discuss textiles and textile production starting from the analyses of tools whether functional or as representative of technological developments or user identity Archaeological and cultural contexts as well as textile traditions are the main topics of the six chapters in Part IV Traditions and Contexts Fibres Fabrics Techniques Uses and Meanings The two final chapters in Part V Digital Tools refer to the use of digital tools in textile research presenting two different case studies

Funerary Textiles in Situ Elsa Yvanez, Magdalena M. Wozniak, 2025-07-11

This open access book explores the role of textiles in death to investigate questions into how the body was prepared before the funeral how the body was seen and perceived by its relatives and community and the role of textiles in its metamorphosis into a deceased The volume s geographic coverage is broad encompassing areas where textile and skeletal conservation is optimal the ancient Nile Valley and areas where only minute fragments could be preserved adhering to metal objects The case studies cover Egypt Sudan Greece the Iberian Peninsula Scandinavia and Central Europe ranging from the 12th century BCE to the end of the 19th century CE Going beyond this geohistorical frameworks the book presents new methods for the study retrieval and conservation of funerary textiles in situ during excavations It offers useful tools for future research in both textile archaeology and bioarcheology and promote interdisciplinary collaborations between the two fields for a better understanding of burial practices Contributors to this volume include experts from the fields of bioanthropology archaeology textile research and conservation

Prehistoric, Ancient Near Eastern and Aegean Textiles and Dress Mary Harlow, Cécile Michel, Marie-Louise Nosch, 2015

Greek and Roman Textiles and Dress Mary Harlow, Marie-Louise Nosch, 2014-09-30

Twenty chapters present the range of current research into the study of textiles and dress in classical antiquity stressing the need for cross and inter disciplinary study in order to gain the fullest picture of surviving material Issues addressed include the importance of studying textiles to understand economy and landscape in the past different types of embellishments of dress from weaving techniques to the late introduction of embroidery the close links between the language of ancient mathematics and weaving the relationships of iconography to the realities of clothed bodies including a paper on the ground breaking research on the polychromy of ancient statuary dye recipes and methods of analysis case studies of garments in Spanish Viennese and Greek collections which discuss methods of analysis and conservation analyses of textile tools from across the Mediterranean discussions of trade and ethnicity to the workshop relations in Roman fulleries Multiple aspects of the production of textiles and the social meaning of dress are included here to offer the reader an up to date account of the state of current research The volume opens up the range of questions that can now be answered when looking at fragments of textiles and examining written and iconographic images of dressed individuals in a range of media The volume is part of a pair together with Prehistoric Ancient Near Eastern and Aegean Textiles and Dress an interdisciplinary anthology edited by Mary Harlow Cile Michel and Marie Louise Nosch

First Aid for the Excavation of Archaeological Textiles C. Gillis, Marie-Louise Nosch, 2007-03-10 This small booklet is an important conservation guide It deals with the special care required in order to deal with these delicate fabrics during their excavation and recording It is included as an appendix in Ancient Textiles Production Crafts and Society

Textiles in Southwestern Prehistory Lynn S. Teague, Helga Teiwes, 1998 Examines the archaeological evidence for textiles and the materials and technologies used in producing them in the prehistoric Southwest

Making Textiles in pre-Roman and Roman Times Margarita Gleba, Judit Pásztoakai-Szeőke, 2013-10-30 Textile production is an economic necessity that has confronted all societies in the past While most textiles were manufactured at a household level valued textiles were traded over long distances and these trade networks were influenced by raw material supply labour skills costs as well as by regional traditions This was true in the Mediterranean regions and Making Textiles in pre Roman and Roman times explores the abundant archaeological and written evidence to understand the typological and geographical diversity of textile commodities Beginning in the Iron Age the volume examines the foundations of the textile trade in Italy and the emergence of specialist textile production in Austria the impact of new Roman markets on regional traditions and the role that gender played in the production of textiles Trade networks from far beyond the frontiers of the Empire are traced whilst the role of specialized merchants dealing in particular types of garment and the influence of Roman collegia on how textiles were produced and distributed are explored Of these collegia that of the fullers appears to have been particularly influential at a local level and how cloth was cleaned and treated is examined in detail using archaeological evidence from Pompeii and provincial contexts to understand the processes behind this area of the textile trade

Textiles and Textile Production in Europe from Prehistory to AD 400 Margarita Gleba, Ulla Mannering, 2019-10-05 There is evidence that ever since early prehistory textiles have always had more than simply a utilitarian function Textiles express who we are our gender age family affiliation occupation religion ethnicity and social political economic and legal status Besides expressing our identity textiles protect us from the harsh conditions of the environment whether as clothes or shelter We use them at birth for swaddling in illness as bandages and at death as shrouds

We use them to carry and contain people and things We use them for subsistence to catch fish and animals and for transport as sails In fact textiles represent one of the earliest human craft technologies and they have always been a fundamental part of subsistence economy and exchange Textiles have an enormous potential in archaeological research to inform us of social chronological and cultural aspects of ancient societies In archaeology the study of textiles is often relegated to the marginalized zone of specialist and specialized subject and lack of dialogue between textile researchers and scholars in other fields means that as a resource textiles are not used to their full potential or integrated into the overall interpretation of a particular site or broader aspects of human activity Textiles and Textile Production in Europe is a major new survey that aims to redress this Twenty three chapters collect and systematize essential information on textiles and textile production from sixteen European countries resulting in an up to date and detailed sourcebook and an easily accessible overview of the development of European textile technology and economy from prehistory to AD 400 All chapters have an introduction give the chronological and cultural background and an overview of the material in question organized chronologically and thematically The sources of information used by the authors are primarily textiles and textile tools recovered from archaeological contexts In addition other evidence for the study of ancient textile production ranging from iconography to written sources to palaeobotanical and archaeozoological remains are included The introduction gives a summary on textile preservation analytical techniques and production sequence that provides a background for the terminology and issues discussed in the various chapters Extensively illustrated with over 200 color illustrations maps chronologies and index this will be an essential sourcebook not just for textile researchers but also the wider archaeological community Textiles and Cult in the Ancient Mediterranean Cecilie Brøns, Marie-Louise Nosch, 2017 Twenty four experts from the fields of ancient history Semitic philology Assyriology classical archaeology and classical philology come together in this volume to explore the role of textiles in ancient religion in Greece Italy the Levant and the Near East Recent scholarship has illustrated how textiles played a large and very important role in the ancient Mediterranean sanctuaries In Greece the so called temple inventories testify to the use of textiles as votive offerings in particular to female divinities Furthermore in several cults textiles were used to dress the images of different deities Textiles played an important role in the dress of priests and priestesses who often wore specific garments designated by particular colours Clothing regulations in order to enter or participate in certain rituals from several Greek sanctuaries also testify to the importance of dress of ordinary visitors Textiles were used for the furnishings of the temples for example in the form of curtains draperies wall hangings sun shields and carpets This illustrates how the sanctuaries were potential major consumers of textiles nevertheless this particular topic has so far not received much attention in modern scholarship Furthermore our knowledge of where the textiles consumed in the sanctuaries came from where they were produced and by who is extremely limited Textiles and Cult in the Ancient Mediterranean examines the topics of textile production in sanctuaries the use of textiles as votive offerings and ritual dress
