The Interpretation of Pictures Mark W. Roskill, 1989 This volume examines the ways pictures are interpreted discussing the practices of interpretation that inform the modern discipline of art history in contrast to those that prevailed in earlier periods As an introductory text on the traditions and principles of interpretation the book explores key methods and shows how the personalities and backgrounds of particular art historians have contributed to the character of their writings

The Interpretation of Pictures Mark W. Roskill, 1989      Ancient Mythological Images and their Interpretation Katharina Lorenz, 2016-08-18 When we try to make sense of pictures what do we gain when we use a particular method and what might we be missing or even losing Empirical experimentation on three types of mythological imagery a Classical Greek pot a frieze from Hellenistic Pergamon and a second century CE Roman sarcophagus enables Katharina Lorenz to demonstrate how theoretical approaches to images specifically iconology semiotics and image studies impact the meanings we elicit from Greek and Roman art A guide to Classical images of myth and also a critical history of Classical archaeology attempts to give meaning to pictures this book establishes a dialogue with the wider field of art history and proposes a new framework for the study of ancient visual culture It will be essential reading not just for students of classical art history and archaeology but for anyone interested in the possibilities and the history of studying visual culture      The Interpretation of

Dreams Sigmund Freud, 1921      Understanding Pictures Dominic Lopes, 1996-03-28 There is not one but many ways to picture the world Australian x ray pictures cubist collages Amerindian split style figures and pictures in two point perspective each draw attention to different features of what they represent The premise of Understanding Pictures is that this diversity is the central fact with which a theory of figurative pictures must reckon Lopes argues that identifying pictures subjects is akin to recognizing objects whose appearances have changed over time He develops a schema for categorizing the different ways pictures represent the different kinds of meaning they have and he contends that depiction's epistemic value lies in its representational diversity He also offers a novel account of the phenomenology of pictorial experience comparing pictures to visual prostheses like mirrors and binoculars The book concludes with a discussion of works of art which have made pictorial meaning their theme demonstrating the importance of the issues this book raises for understanding the aesthetics of pictures

Image Understanding Workshop, 1994      Pictures for Schools, 1925      The School Arts Book, 1911      Cognitive Penetrability of Perception Athanassios Raftopoulos, 2005 The issue of the cognitive impenetrability or penetrability of perception lay dormant for a long period of time Though philosophers reacted to the relativism implied by the work of Hanson Kuhn and Feyerabend they concentrated their efforts in dealing with the danger of the incommensurability of theories They tried to show by philosophical and detailed historical analysis that scientists within different paradigms do communicate with each other and put their respective theories to the empirical test Curiously enough the same philosophers did not seek to examine the very foundation of the relativistic trend namely the thesis that perception is cognitively penetrable and theory laden In the last decade there has been a keen interest in studying the cognition perception boundary However the discussion focused mainly on the grounding of conceptual content on perception and on the embodiment of cognition The repercussions of these issues for the problem of the cognitive effects on perception were largely ignored The chapters in this book address directly the issue of the cognitive penetrability of perception The volume consists of eleven chapters each one addressing the issue from a different perspective Eight of the chapters were written by philosophers and cognitive scientists and three by psychologists and neuropsychologists These differences notwithstanding the chapters share many common themes The role of attention in perception the contribution of action to perception the relation between perception and scientific data the examination of the content of perception and its nature and the detailed examination of the ways background knowledge affects perception are among these themes Most chapters combine philosophical analysis with psychological and or neuropsychological evidence which shows that there is consensus as to the kind of approaches that are currently deemed necessary for an adequate examination of the problem
