Specification Estimation And Analysis Of Macroeconomic Models:

Specification, Estimation, and Analysis of Macroeconometric Models Ray C. Fair, 1984 This book gives a practical applications oriented account of the latest techniques for estimating and analyzing large nonlinear macroeconomic models Ray Fair demonstrates the application of these techniques in a detailed presentation of several actual models including his United States model his multicountry model Sargent's classical macroeconomic model autoregressive and vector autoregressive models and a small twelve equation linear structural model He devotes a good deal of attention to the difficult and often neglected problem of moving from theoretical to econometric models In addition he provides an extensive discussion of optimal control techniques and methods for estimating and analyzing rational expectations models A computer program that handles all the techniques in the book is available from the author making it possible to use the techniques with little additional programming The book presents the logic of this program A smaller program for personal microcomputers for analysis of Fair's United States model is available from Urban Systems Research Engineering Inc Anyone wanting to learn how to use large macroeconomic models including researchers graduate students economic forecasters and people in business and government both in the United States and abroad will find this an essential guidebook Specification,

Estimation, and Analysis of Macroeconomic Models R.C. Fair, 1984 Rational Expectations in Macroeconomic Models P. Fisher, 2013-04-17 It is commonly believed that macroeconomic models are not useful for policy analysis because they do not take proper account of agents' expectations Over the last decade mainstream macroeconomic models in the UK and elsewhere have taken on board the Rational Expectations Revolution by explicitly incorporating expectations of the future In principle one can perform the same technical exercises on a forward expectations model as on a conventional model and more Rational Expectations in Macroeconomic Models deals with the numerical methods necessary to carry out policy analysis and forecasting with these models These methods are often passed on by word of mouth or confined to obscure journals Rational Expectations in Macroeconomic Models brings them together with applications which are interesting in their own right There is no comparable textbook in the literature The specific subjects include i solving for model consistent expectations ii the choice of terminal condition and time horizon iii experimental design i.e. the effect of temporary vs permanent anticipated vs unanticipated shocks deterministic vs stochastic dynamic vs static simulation iv the role of exchange rate v optimal control and inflation output tradeoffs The models used are those of the Liverpool Research Group in Macroeconomics the London Business School and the National Institute of Economic and Social Research A System-theoretic Methods in Economic Modelling S. Mittnik, E. Y. Rodin, 1989 The value of applying system theoretic concepts to economic modelling problems arises from the fact that it offers a unifying framework for modelling dynamic systems In addition to offering this powerful conceptual framework it provides a wide range of tools useful in applied work System theoretic techniques enter predominantly two stages of economic modelling efforts the stage of model construction and the stage of model application in accordance with the modelling The objective of this and subsequent volumes on System Theoretic Methods in Economic Modelling I is to initiate and or intensify dialogues between researchers and practitioners within and across the disciplines involved This first volume brings together papers exhibiting a wide range of system theoretic techniques and applications to economic problems The papers have been divided into two groups following roughly but not necessarily the above classification into the construction and application stages of economic modelling The papers in the first group focus on the identification of dynamic and static systems while the papers in the second group address dynamic optimization problems
