Stephens William Richard W. Stephens, 1899

The World of Golf Garden Grant Smith, 1898 The Golf Courses of the British Isles Bernard Darwin, 1910 Some dozen or fifteen years ago the historian of the London golf courses would have had a comparatively easy task He would have said that there were a few courses upon public commons instancing as he still would to day Blackheath and Wimbledon He might have dismissed in a line or two a course that a few mad barristers were trying to carve by main force out of a swamp thickly covered with gorse and heather near Woking All the other courses would have been lumped together under some such description as that they consisted of fields interspersed by trees and artificial ramparts the latter mostly built by Tom Dunn that they were villainously muddy in winter of an impossible and adamant hardness in summer and just endurable in spring and autumn finally that the muddiest and hardest and most distinguished of them all was Tooting Bec All this is changed now and the change is best exemplified by the fact that although the club has removed to new quarters poor Tooting itself is now as Tadmor in the wilderness I passed by the spot the other day and should never have recognized it had not an old member pointed it out to me in a voice husky with emotion The New York Times Index, 1921 The Magistrates' Court Reports, 1916 Outlook, 1897 The Estate Magazine, 1914 The Congregationalist, 1917 The Congregationalist and Christian World, 1916 Golf in Perth and Perthshire Peter Baxter (Botanist), 1899
