The Wood-worker, 1892 The Alchemy of Research-Creation Tyson E. Lewis, Peter B. Hyland, 2026-04-01 Offers a radical new interpretation of research creation connecting current practices to their lost alchemical predecessors Research creation is an attempt to suspend the operative divisions that define Western modernity divisions between the head and the hand knowledge and pleasure science and art Yet this practice which has so much promise has often fallen prey to facile fashionable notions of interdisciplinarity and hybridizations of science and art The Alchemy of Research Creation charts a new imaginative genealogy for research creation by returning to a spatial and temporal configuration that predates the advent of the divided Western world the alchemical studio Shifting focus to the alchemical studio means fundamentally reconceptualizing the problematic of research creation aligning it with queer pataphysical and neurodiverse forms of non knowledge rather than more familiar safe epistemological questions about scientific validity and aesthetic judgment Through engagements with pataphysical artists critical theorists and occult practitioners Tyson E Lewis and Peter B Hyland open up a dark dimension within research creation that has the potential to set adrift what can be thought and sensed beyond the current coordinates of our divided world
