Changing Landscape of Academic Women's Health Care in the United States William F. Rayburn, Jay Schulkin, 2011-03-31 Since 2005 a dozen states and more than 15 specialties have reported a physician shortage or anticipate one in the next few years This anticipated shortage and a worsening of physician distribution are compounded by a projected increased demand for women s healthcare services Women s healthcare is particularly vulnerable because the obstetrician gynecologist workforce is aging and is among the least satisfied medical specialists Furthermore fellowship training in women s healthcare in internal medicine and in maternal child health in family and community medicine involves only a small portion of general internists and family physicians In response to this challenge the Association of American Medical Colleges called for an expansion of medical schools and graduate medical education enrollments As we cope with significant and rapid changes in organizations and reimbursement academic departments of obstetrics and gynecology family and community medicine and internal medicine have opportunities to create a unified women s health curriculum for undergraduate students share preventive health and well woman expertise in training programs provide improved continuity of care instill concepts of lifelong learning to our graduates and better develop our research programs This volume s chapters focus on strategic planning on behalf of academic faculty who will train the anticipated additional load of students residents and fellows in women s healthcare changing demographics of faculty expanding roles of clinician educators physician investigators and their future the hidden value of part time faculty faculty salaries required skillsets of academic leaders the meaning of tenure and faculty satisfaction and retention Recommendations presented here from authors with distinguished leadership skills indicate a consensus but not unanimity Infurthering these goals we summarize in the final chapter our collective expertise and offer ways to implement recommendations to better prepare for tomorrow s needs in academic women s healthcare

Women's Healthcare in Advanced Practice Nursing Ivy M. Alexander, Versie Johnson-Mallard, Elizabeth Kostas-Polston, Joyce D. Cappiello, Heather S. Hubbard, 2023-10-30. Holistically addresses women's health encompassing the needs of transgender and nonbinary individuals and considering ethnicity, social class, and disability. Delivering incisive and comprehensive information on the healthcare needs of women, transgender, and nonbinary persons, the third edition of this distinguished text incorporates a strong focus on the provision of high value, equitable, and unbiased care. It expands research and clinical frameworks for understanding women's health to encompass transgender and nonbinary persons and places women's health within a holistic perspective considering ethnicity, social class, and disability. All chapters are significantly updated with new evidence-based research, clinical updates, and guidelines, drug information, Covid-related information, racism, and health disparities. This text also covers current and pertinent health topics such as substance use and abuse, mental health, early pregnancy, decision making, and LGBTQ care, as well as abundant integrated information on care of transgender and nonbinary individuals and enhanced information on pregnancy and primary care issues that disproportionately affect females. The book is organized for ease of use and is comprised of three distinct but interrelated sections on theoretical frameworks to guide approach and care, health promotion and prevention, and managing health conditions. Rich instructor resources include mapping content to AACN Essentials, case studies, a test bank, and PowerPoint slides. New to the Third Edition: Focuses on providing equitable, unbiased care for all women, including transgender and nonbinary individuals. Updated with new evidence-based research, clinical updates, and guidelines, drug information, Covid-related information, and racism and health disparities information. Expanded information on care of transgender individuals. Enhanced content on pregnancy and related issues. Four color presentation to enhance readability. Incorporates content in WHNP and CNM national certification examination blueprints. Key Features: Distills cutting edge
