Picturing Performance Thomas F. Heck, R. L. Erenstein, 1999 There has long been a need to introduce performing arts enthusiasts and students to the fascinating field of iconography both as manifested in art history and in its more pragmatic or applied forms Yet relatively little systematic effort has been made to collect and interpret centuries of such visual evidence in the light of the best available art historical information combined with corroborating textual documentation and insights from the histories of performance disciplines. Aspiring iconographers of the performing arts need to be aware that there are often several levels of interpretation which great works of visual art will sustain. This book explores these levels of interpretation: a surface or literal reading, a deeper reading of the work which seeks to enter the mind of the artist and asks how and why he put a given work together, and the deepest reading of the work relating it to the artistic traditions and culture in which the artist lived. In expounding on these levels of iconographic interpretations, four discourses by scholars active in the study of visual records are given in relation to traditions, techniques, and trends in performance in general: Katritzky (music), Heck (theatre), Erenstein (dance), and Smith (Effort). It is made to keep abreast of modern technology influencing iconographic representations, as on the Internet and virtual reality. Thomas F. Heck is Professor of Musicology and Head of the Music and Dance Library at the Ohio State University. Using the Visual and Performing Arts to Encourage Pro-Environmental Behaviour David Curtis, 2020-10-06. Ecoarts practice is evolving quickly as a practice. While much of it is made by individual artists working alone, artists are increasingly combining into multi-artist collectives and collaborating with scientists, sustainability professionals, industry, or the community to develop artworks with quite far-reaching effects. This book describes an extraordinary range of artistic practices pitched to encourage people to adopt pro-environmental behaviours by provoking, persuading, providing information, creating empathy for nature, or by being built into sustainability practices themselves. It brings together 28 contributors who examine different roles of the arts in encouraging pro-environmental behaviour. There is a wide range of practitioners represented here, including visual and performing artists, sustainability professionals, social researchers, environmental educators, research students, and academics. The contributors to this book are united in believing that the arts are vital in promoting pro-environmental behavior in the way that they are practiced, but also in the connections they make to ecology, science, and Indigenous culture.

The volume's interdisciplinary approach to reception brings together literary criticism, visual culture, and performance studies. The essays analyse creative uses of the poet from medieval manuscript illumination to nineteenth and twentieth-century stage productions, from film to ballet and hyperinstruments. The Visual and Performing Arts University of South Carolina, 1987.
