Physics Methods in Archaeometry M. Martini,M. Milazzo,M. Piacentini,2006-06-15 The role of exact sciences in connection with cultural heritage now is well established and a new scientific branch has been generated Archaeometry Literally Archaeometry means measurement on ancient objects It is a multidisciplinary field of investigations where the rigorous methods of exact sciences give a fundamental contribution to solving the problems associated with conservation and restoration as well as to the study itself of the cultural heritage Archaeometry as a scientific research field involves interdisciplinary groups formed by scholars of the humanistic area together with scientists physicists chemists mathematicians biologists engineers etc The primary justification for the need of involving exact sciences in the field which in the past traditionally has been exclusive of Art Historians must no doubt be found in the conservation and restoration activities The second argument which in the public opinion justifies the involvement of science with the world of Art is the confidence that scientific methods are infallible in unmasking forgeries But in our opinion the awareness of the central role of scientific methods as a support for philological and historical investigations is still very little diffuse or at least finds it hard to become widespread Perhaps also because of our mentality Physics compared to chemistry is more apt to find applications in a context free from authentication or conservation implications Forming of Ceramics John A. Mangels,1984 Zuni Origins David A. Gregory,David R. Wilcox,2015-11-01 A Choice Outstanding Academic Title The Zuni are a Southwestern people whose origins have long intrigued anthropologists This volume presents fresh approaches to that question from both anthropological and traditional perspectives exploring the origins of the tribe and the influences that have affected their way of life Utilizing macro regional approaches it brings together many decades of research in the Zuni and Mogollon areas incorporating archaeological evidence environmental data and linguistic analyses to propose new links among early Southwestern peoples The findings reported here postulate the differentiation of the Zuni language at least 7 000 to 8 000 years ago following the initial peopling of the hemisphere and both formulate and test the hypothesis that many Mogollon populations were Zunian speakers Some of the contributions situate Zuni within the developmental context of Southwestern societies from Paleoindian to Mogollon Others test the Mogollon Zuni hypothesis by searching for contrasts between these and neighboring peoples and tracing these contrasts through macro regional analyses of environments sites pottery basketry and rock art Several studies of late prehistoric and protohistoric settlement systems in the Zuni area then express more cautious views on the Mogollon connection and present insights from Zuni traditional history and cultural geography Two internationally known scholars then critique the essays and the editors present a new research design for pursuing the question of Zuni origins By taking stock and synthesizing what is currently known about the origins of the Zuni language and the development of modern Zuni culture Zuni Origins is the only volume to address this subject with such a breadth of data and interpretations It will prove invaluable to archaeologists working throughout the North American Southwest as well as to others struggling with issues of ethnicity migration incipient agriculture and linguistic origins Ceramic Abstracts ,1929

Encounters: Medieval Islamic History in 50 Objects Marcus Milwright,2025-11-13 This book consists of fifty case studies and offers an innovative approach to the study of Medieval Islamic history concentrating on the analysis of physical objects from the seventh to the eighteenth centuries and across most of the regions that make up the pre Modern Islamic world These include a wide range of objects from portable items like coins vessels and books to major constructions including mosques tombs castles dams and canal systems The central argument is that the interdisciplinary study of physical objects provides invaluable perspectives that can deepen or challenge the evidence in the written record Object based study can also shed light on the lives of social groups who are seldom discussed in Islamic texts written before the modern period To demonstrate these points each case study focusses on a single object or small group of related objects The case studies combine close analysis of the material and visual characteristics with a discussion of the wider context in which such objects were commissioned made used adapted and exchanged The book is intended as an introduction to the historical study of Islamic objects employing perspectives from the fields of art history archaeology numismatics ethnography and epigraphy
