

A scenic landscape featuring a winding asphalt road that curves through a valley. The road is flanked by dark, silhouetted mountains. In the background, a range of mountains is visible under a sky filled with soft, orange and yellow clouds, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

There is no 'truth and fiction', but different kinds of truths that vary depending on the phases of life and the quality of the system that helps us become aware of them. Legends are truths like the truths of nature, mathematics and history. Each one has its spiritual system.

The Truths Of Fiction

Oliver Optic

The Truths Of Fiction:

The Truths of Fiction Allan Edwin Rodway, 1970 Truth, Fiction, and Literature Peter Lamarque, Stein Haugom Olsen, 1994 This book examines the complex and varied ways in which fictions relate to the real world and offers a precise account of how imaginative works of literature can use fictional content to explore matters of universal human interest While rejecting the traditional view that literature is important for the truths that it imparts the authors also reject attempts to cut literature off altogether from real human concerns Their detailed account of fictionality mimesis and cognitive value founded on the methods of analytical philosophy restores to literature its distinctive status among cultural practices The authors also explore metaphysical and skeptical views prevalent in modern thought according to which the world itself is a kind of fiction and truth no more than a social construct They identify different conceptions of fiction in science logic epistemology and make believe and thereby challenge the idea that discourse per se is fictional and that different modes of discourse are at root indistinguishable They offer rigorous analyses of the roles of narrative imagination metaphor and making in human thought processes Both in their methods and in their conclusions Lamarque and Olsen aim to restore rigor and clarity to debates about the values of literature and to provide new philosophically sound foundations for a genuine change of direction in literary theorizing

The Character of Truth Naomi Jacobs, 1990 Can the novel survive in an age when tales of historical figures and contemporary personalities dominate the reading lists of the book buying public Naomi Jacobs addresses this question in a study of writers such as William Styron E L Doctorow and Robert Coover who challenge the dominance of nonfiction by populating their fictions with real people living and dead Jacobs explores the genesis varieties and implications of this trend in a prose as lively as that of the writers she critiques Using as a case study Robert Coover's portrait of Richard Nixon in The Public Burning Jacobs addresses the important legal and ethical questions raised by this trend and applies contemporary libel law to the fictionalization of living people such as Richard Nixon She closes her study by speculating on the future of this device and of the novel

The Truths of Fiction James Sawyer, 1894 Manual of the Art of Fiction Clayton Meeker Hamilton, 1918 Truth.Fiction.Lies Patrick X Walsh, 2019-09-11 How could he be a good boy and a bad boy at the same time The TRUTH is what is FICTION is not reality but it can help us to see the TRUTH through stories e g The Boy Who Cried Wolf LIES deceive for evil purposes and for good purposes But what happens when what we think is the TRUTH turns out to be a LIE In his ninth decade the author who has spent his life creating FICTION to examine TRUTH decided to write the story of his life truthfully But in the process of examining his life his prayers works joys and sufferings he discovers it becomes more and more difficult to distinguish the TRUTH from the LIES And the chief insights into the reality of a life he thought noble his FICTION often in the form of dreams reveals his true nature as a failure in his professed faith until a good woman shows him the way out of his dark forest

read it Gayle Forman best selling author of If I Stay Susan Juby is a marvel Wise witty and full of heart her writing draws you in and won't let go And just when you think it can't get any better it does Meg Cabot This was going to be the year Normandy Pale came into her own The year she emerged from her older sister's shadow and Kiera who became a best selling graphic novelist before she even graduated from high school casts a long one But it hasn't worked out that way not quite So Normandy turns to her art and writing and the truth commission she and her friends have started to find out the secrets at their school It's a great idea as far as it goes until it leads straight back to Kiera who has been hiding some pretty serious truths of her own Susan Juby's The Truth Commission A story about easy truths hard truths and those things best left unsaid With a deft hand and an open mind Juby presents many layers of truth This is a sharp edged portrait of a dysfunctional family with some thought provoking ideas about what is real Publishers Weekly starred review A surprising witty and compulsive read School Library Journal starred review Hilarious deliciously provocative and slyly thought provoking Kirkus Reviews starred review Juby's bright dialogue and vivid appealing characters draw readers along as the three young artists navigate truths both light and dark discovering themselves in the process The Horn Book starred review A smart savvy YA novel about what constitutes the truth its ideas will linger long after the last page Shelf Awareness starred review I absolutely loved The Truth Commission Every page made me laugh aloud while all the time the tears were creeping up on me The characters are so real that I wouldn't be surprised if they knocked on my door right now I hope they do I want to spend more time with them

Jaelyn Moriarty author of The Year of Secret Assignments and A Corner of White The Magic of Truth Farah Dally, 2014-11-10 Questions of truth have occupied philosophers scientists and theologians throughout human history What is truth Does it exist How do we define truth Who determines what is true and what is not The Magic of Truth defends the relativity of truth by examining its role in literature the arts and science as well as in our own lives and traditions The product of intensive research on the idea of truth and the secret meaning it holds Farah Dally argues that no field of study can progress without calling into question the traditional view of truth as a clear objective image Outlook, 1914 Truth in Fiction John Woods, 2018-02-23 This monograph examines truth in fiction by applying the techniques of a naturalized logic of human cognitive practices The author structures his project around two focal questions What would it take to write a book about truth in literary discourse with reasonable promise of getting it right What would it take to write a book about truth in fiction as true to the facts of lived literary experience as objectivity allows It is argued that the most semantically distinctive feature of the sentences of fiction is that they are unambiguously true and false together It is true that Sherlock Holmes lived at 221B Baker Street and also concurrently false that he did A second distinctive feature of fiction is that the reader at large knows of this inconsistency and isn't in the least cognitively molested by it Why it is asked would this be so What would explain it Two answers are developed According to the no contradiction thesis the semantically tangled sentences of fiction are indeed logically inconsistent but not logically contradictory According to the no bother thesis if the inconsistencies of fiction were contradictory a properly contrived logic for the rational management of inconsistency would explain why readers at large are not thrown off cognitive stride by their embrace of those contradictions As developed here the account of fiction suggests the presence of an underlying three or four valued dialethic logic The author shows this to be a mistaken impression There are only two truth values in his logic of fiction The naturalized logic of Truth in Fiction jettisons some of the standard assumptions and analytical tools of contemporary philosophy chiefly because the neurotypical linguistic and cognitive behaviour of humanity at large is at variance with them Using the resources of a causal response epistemology in tandem with the naturalized logic the theory produced here is data driven empirically sensitive and open to a circumspect collaboration with the empirical sciences of language and cognition

Time and Tide David Pendery, 2024-10-16 The work introduces the topic of historical writing in fictional and non fictional contexts methodologies and approaches The author analyses historiography and historical novels and shows how a confabulation is evident in these works and how these are transacting modes in a single paradigm The book uses the theoretical construct of the Aesthetics Ethic It looks at varied aesthetic contours in lived experience a given social ethic histories of sensibilities and what is termed a narrative ethic and goes on to look at Narrative consciousness and historical experience Living links with analysis comprising narrative consciousness psychological concepts including subjectivity and objectivity and the importance of thought The book also introduces a new theoretical model of historical truth apprehension The examination of fictionalized history and historicized fiction examines aesthetic contours including point of view and the concept of becoming in fiction and history heteroglossia and intertextuality the conceptions of contingency metaphor modality and chaos and temporality and rhetoric It concludes with thoughts and summaries to bring the whole work into focus

The Truth Seeker, 1893

Desire and Truth Patricia Meyer Spacks, 1994-03-20 Desire and Truth offers a major reassessment of the history of eighteenth century fiction by showing how plot challenges or reinforces conventional categories of passion and rationality Arguing that fiction creates and conveys its essential truths through plot Patricia Meyer Spacks demonstrates that eighteenth century fiction is both profoundly realistic and consistently daring
