

IN CONGRESS, July 4, 1776.

States of America

Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth a separate and equal station, it is their right, it is their duty, to declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such Principles and organizing its Powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, in such a Case, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that even the most absolute Despotism is less dangerous to our Liberties than a series of Innovations, the steady, gradual, and total destruction of our Government, and the consequent establishment of a new one.
