Deadly Developments Stephen and Downs Reyna,2005-08-04 Ten anthropologists trace the machinations of war and the effects of violence in capitalist states from their formation to the present This collection the newest volume in the War and Society series questions the foundations of classical social theory while investigating local and international conflict through the critical and cross cultural lens of social theory history and anthropology The essays combine to challenge the notion developed by social theorists such as Comte Spencer Durkheim and Engels that war will diminish with the formation and the perpetuation of a capitalist economy and industry The development of capitalist states and the nefarious and violent processes which must occur to reproduce capitalism are rarely realized and then infrequently analyzed Many western and ethnocentric scholarly representations of war succeed in hiding the deadly developments that occur as a result of capitalist state formation and relations

State Failure in Sub-Saharan Africa Catherine Scott,2017-06-30 How should failed states in Africa be understood Catherine Scott here critically engages with the concept of state failure and provides an historical reinterpretation She shows that although the concept emerged in the context of the post Cold War new world order the phenomenon has been attendant throughout and even before the development of the Westphalian state system Contemporary failed states however differ from their historical counterparts in one fundamental respect they fail within their existing borders and continue to be recognised as something that they are not This peculiarity derives from international norms instituted in the era of decolonisation which resulted in the inviolability of state borders and the supposed universality of statehood Scott argues that contemporary failed states are in fact failed post colonies Thus understood state failure is less the failure of existing states and more the failed rooting and institutionalisation of imported and reified models of Western statehood Drawing on insights from the histories of Uganda and Burundi from pre colonial polity formation to the present day she explores why and how there have been failures to create effective and legitimate national states within the bounds of inherited colonial jurisdictions on much of the African continent
