Criticism and Fiction (Annotated) William Dean Howells, 2015-09-27 The question of a final criterion for the appreciation of art is one that perpetually recurs to those interested in any sort of aesthetic endeavor Mr John Addington Symonds in a chapter of The Renaissance in Italy treating of the Bolognese school of painting which once had so great cry and was vaunted the supreme exemplar of the grand style but which he now believes fallen into lasting contempt for its emptiness and soullessness seeks to determine whether there can be an enduring criterion or not and his conclusion is applicable to literature as to the other arts My Literary Passions William Dean Howells, 2020 The sort of autobiography of which My Literary Passions is an example is always interesting Mr Howells is by no means the first to write upon the theme of Books Which Have Influenced Me but we do not just now think of anyone before him who has made it the subject of a whole volume Mr Howells has had many literary passions fifty or thereabouts to reckon only from the chapter headings and in not a few cases it is obvious that he has loved not wisely but too well What we particularly like about the book aside from the unflinching charm of its manner is the frankly subjective character of the record Mr Howells has elsewhere sinned not a little in attempting to pass off his personal likes and dislikes as objective criticism but in the present case what he writes is just what it pretends to be a consecutive account of the books that came into his hands during his impressionable early years and of the feelings with which he read them There is an occasional touch of Philistinism as in the plea more than once made for bowdlerizing the English classics in general or of a lack of appreciation which is simply amazing as in this opinion I do not think I should have lost much if I had never read Pericles and Winter's Tale In the present work Mr Howells is concerned with the books that he read and not with those that he wrote but he does have a word to say of his own first volume and it is to this amusing effect The Poems of Two Friends became instantly and lastingly unknown to fame the West waited as it always does to hear what the East should say the East said nothing and two thirds of the small edition of five hundred came back upon the publisher's hands My Literary Passions, Criticism and Fiction William D. Howells, 2006-10 A splendid work of criticism that introduces us to Howells the well versed literary critic He discusses the writings of various authors through the ages a for instance Cervantes Shakespeare Pope Tolstoy a in great detail His criticism is based on his in depth study which makes the book highly informative Truly enlightening *W. The War of the Critics Over William Dean Howells Edwin Harrison Cady, David L. Frazier, 1962 Three Critics George Rice Carpenter, 1891 My Literary Passions Criticism Fiction William Dean Howells, 1910 My Literary Passions William Howells, 2013-10-11 The papers collected here under the name of My Literary Passions were printed serially in a periodical of such vast circulation that they might well have been supposed to have found there all the acceptance that could be reasonably hoped for them Nevertheless they were reissued in a volume the year after they first appeared in 1895 and they had a pleasing share of such favor as their author's books have enjoyed But it is to be doubted whether any one liked reading them so much as he liked writing them say some time in the years 1893 and 1894 in a New York flat where he could look from his lofty windows over two miles and a half of woodland in Central Park and halloo his fancy wherever he chose in that faery realm of books which he re entered in reminiscences perhaps too fond at times and perhaps always too eager for the reader's following The name was thought by the friendly editor of the popular publication where they were serialized a main part of such inspiration as they might be conjectured to have and was as seldom happens with editor and author cordially agreed upon before they were begun The name says indeed so exactly and so fully what they are that little remains for their bibliographer to add beyond the meagre historical detail here given Their short and simple annals could be eked out by confidences which would not appreciably enrich the materials of the literary history of their time and it seems better to leave them to the imagination of such posterity as they may reach They are rather helplessly frank but not I hope with all their rather helpless frankness offensively frank They are at least not part of the polemic which their author sustained in the essays following them in this volume and which might have been called in conformity with My Literary Passions by the title of My Literary Opinions better than by the vague name which they actually wear Critical Essays on W.D. Literary criticism In addition to his own creative works Howells also wrote criticism and essays about contemporary literary figures such as Henrik Ibsen mile Zola Giovanni Verga Benito P rez Gald s and especially Leo Tolstoy which helped establish their reputations in the United States He also wrote critically in support of American writers Hamlin Garland Stephen Crane Emily Dickinson Mary E Wilkins Freeman Paul Laurence Dunbar Sarah Orne Jewett Charles W Chesnutt Abraham Cahan Madison Cawein and Frank Norris It is perhaps in this role that he had his greatest influence In his Editor s Study column at The Atlantic Monthly and later at Harper s he formulated and disseminated his theories of realism in literature Howells viewed realism as nothing more and nothing less than the truthful treatment of material In defense of the real as opposed to the ideal he wrote I hope the time is coming when not only the artist but the common average man who always has the standard of the arts in his power will have also the courage to apply it and will reject the ideal grasshopper wherever he finds it in science in literature in art because it is not simple natural and honest because it is not like a real grasshopper But I will own that I think the time is yet far off and that the people who have been brought up on the ideal grasshopper the heroic grasshopper the impassioned grasshopper the self devoted adventurous good old romantic card board grasshopper must die out before the simple honest and natural grasshopper can have a fair field
