Music, Electronic Media and Culture Simon Emmerson,2016-04-29 Technology revolutionised the ways that music was produced in the twentieth century As that century drew to a close and a new century begins a new revolution in roles is underway The separate categories of composer performer distributor and listener are being challenged while the sounds of the world itself become available for musical use All kinds of sounds are now brought into the remit of composition enabling the music of others to be sampled or plundered including that of unwitting musicians from non western cultures This sound world may appear contradictory stimulating and invigorating as well as exploitative and destructive This book addresses some of the issues now posed by the brave new world of music produced with technology New Music and Institutional Critique Christian Grüny,Brandon Farnsworth,2023-10-26 While institutional critique has long been an important part of artistic practice and theoretical debate in the visual arts it has long escaped attention in the field of music This open access volume assembles for the first time an array of theoretical approaches and practical examples dealing with New Music s institutions their critique and their transformations For scholars leaders and practitioners alike it offers an important overview of current developments as well as theoretical reflections about New Music and its institutions today In this way it provides a major contribution to the debate about the present and future of contemporary music
