Teaching Meaning In Artmaking:

Teaching Meaning in Artmaking Sydney R. Walker, 2001-01-01 The Art Education in Practice series provides working art educators with accessible guides to significant issues in the field. Developments in the field of art education are consolidated into a clear presentation of what a practising teacher needs to know. Each title in the series delivers sensible solutions transforming research and theory into tangible classroom strategies. Paramount to the series is the concept of informed practice whereby important and often complex art education topics are put into the context of the working art teacher and real classroom environments.

30 Kids, 1 Sink Samantha Nolte-Yupari, Kelly Hanning, 2026 This is the first comprehensive guide on classroom management written specifically for K-12 art teachers. 30 Kids, 1 Sink is a must-have classroom management resource written by art teachers for art teachers. The authors focus on proactively planning to help art teachers maximize precious instructional and artmaking time. Harnessing their experiences as pre and in-service educators, they model how to evaluate a classroom, set it up, create general routines, support lesson implementation, respond to disruptive behaviors, and more. The book includes 100 classroom examples and diagrams that show art teachers how to adapt the ideas to their own teaching style, context, and student needs. This practical resource will help art teachers feel more confident organizing their studio and setting up systems to help students and educators be more successful. Book Features: 20 downloadable student handouts, forms, and checklists; Shares 12 general routines to maximize instructional time and support student learning; Offers guidance for improving classroom visuals and art demonstrations; developing an inclusive studio classroom; running a student art show; and closing down the art studio at the end of the year. Provides advice for planning the crucial first 6 weeks of the school year to minimize disruptive behaviors later in the year. Includes resources and tips for Art on a Cart teachers.

Community-Based Art Education Across the Lifespan Pamela Harris Lawton, Margaret A. Walker, Melissa Green, 2019 This book is a comprehensive introduction to the theory and practice of Community Based Art Education (CBAE). CBAE encourages learners to make connections between their art education in a classroom setting and its application in the community beyond school, with demonstrable examples of how the arts impact responsible citizenship. Written by and for visual art educators, this resource offers guidance on how to thoughtfully and successfully execute CBAE in the pre-K-12 classroom and with adult learners, taking a broad view towards intergenerational art learning. Chapters include vignettes, exemplars of practice, curriculum examples that incorporate the National Coalition for Core Arts Standards, and research frameworks for developing, implementing, and assessing CBAE projects. This is the book I have been waiting for, carefully researched, thought-provoking, and inspiring.

Poetry of Place Terry Hermsen, 2009 This book is chockfull of student poetry samples and unique ideas including field trips and a poetry night hike to spark students imaginations and inspire them to write poetry Poetry of Place Helping Students Write Their Worlds isn't your typical book about teaching poetry Sure you'll find plenty of information on helping students learn the fundamentals of writing poetry But you ll also find creative innovative ways to engage students in poetry even those students who may be initially resistant to poetry Through his extensive work with students in grade school through high school poet in residence Terry Hermsen has learned how to foster a love of poetry by taking the learning out of the classroom and into students real lives With numerous lessons and activities Hermsen demonstrates how even the most mundane everyday items from stuff to food to photographs can spark the imagination of student poets Truly teacher tested Hermsen s lessons draw on his extensive teaching career as well as a semester long case study conducted in two high school English classes in Mt Gilead Ohio Activities include using literature and art to spark ideas for poems transforming a routine field trip into a poetry writing session and exploring nature and students surroundings through a poetry night hike Filled with student examples this book illustrates that poetry doesn t have to be boring It can help students develop interpretive and creative thinking skills while helping them better understand the world around them wherever they may live

Theory and Practice in Second Language Teacher Identity Karim Sadeghi, Farah Ghaderi, 2022-09-16 This book brings together the current theory research and practical perspectives from different parts of the world on language teacher identity in an attempt to better understand the nature of identities teachers in different contexts develop By linking theory to pedagogy the book examines how second language teacher identities are shaped and explores the various links between teacher identities and variables that affect the formation of identities Theory and Practice in Second Language Teacher Identity includes a foreword by Jack Richards University of Sydney and RELC an afterword by Peter de Costa Michigan State University and holds 20 invited chapters by established and active scholars and teacher educators to discuss the various aspects of in service and pre service second language teacher identity development It also addresses the way the COVID 19 pandemic has impacted teacher identities and examines under researched issues such as the intersection between gender and race in second language teacher identity development and identity construction in second languages other than English What does it mean to be a teacher of English as a second language in an age of globalization new media technological revolution and de institutionalized knowledge How do teachers gain pre service and in service expertise a sense of professional identity and educational integrity And how have they dealt with the extra burden imposed by the pandemic This thought provoking volume offers valuable perspectives on these important issues in the professional development of English teachers worldwide Prof Claire Kramsch University of California Berkeley USA The way we see ourselves and are seen by others influences our social and professional interactions Teacher identity and sense of agency is therefore not merely a matter of research interest for it impacts learners and learning which makes the topic of this book extremely important With chapters located in a wide range of countries from USA to Australia via UAE Thailand and others and drawing on a variety of research methods the book synthesizes extant research and develops many new research avenues It does so not only with theory in mind but with practical lessons for teachers and teacher educators and thus becomes an essential volume for our libraries and studies

Prof Michael Byram University of Durham UK In this compelling collection co edited by Karim Sadeghi and Farah Ghaderi the authors address key questions about language teacher identity in contemporary applied linguistics What is the relationship between language teacher identity and language teacher agency To what extent does ideology impact language teacher identity How do language teachers navigate an increasingly globalized and unequal world Authors from different regions of the world draw on diverse methodologies to share insightful research on both pre service and in service language teacher identity making an important contribution to applied linguistics and TESOL at a time of great social and educational change Prof Bonny Norton FRSC University Killam Professor and Distinguished University Scholar University of British Columbia Canada Theory and Practice in Second Language Teacher Identity captures recent thinking about language teacher identity The broad array of excellent chapter contributions explores multiple dimensions of identity from teacher agency and emotions to the disruptive effects of the Covid pandemic on teachers professional lives and practices The studies draw on a number of theoretical perspectives and demonstrate the use of both familiar and innovative research methodologies The relevant topics the up to date bibliographic sources and the useful research findings make this edited volume an essential addition to your bookshelf Prof Gary Barkhuizen University of Auckland New Zealand Creating Meaning Through Art Judith W. Simpson,1998 This innovative book helps readers develop a personal philosophy and an artful approach to teaching This text uses the premise that teacher choices set the stage for a balanced approach to art education that considers the child society and the curriculum This book provides information regarding artistic development artistic behavior and methodology for developing curriculum across the developmental spectrum The reader is directly addressed as each chapter presents recent research along with important concepts to understand focuses on different aspects of art education and outlines advantages and challenges of making the suggested choices and also includes suggested activities so readers can act upon content For art teachers at the elementary or secondary education level or students studying to be art teachers Interdisciplinary Approaches to Teaching Art in High School Pamela G. Taylor,2006 The authors present works of art artmaking skills and ways of knowing as catalysts for learning across the traditional disciplinary boundaries in high school Both timely and enduring this is the book that will inspire and support the work of veteran new and pre service high school art teachers The book includes issues theories and practices related to high school curriculum advocacy classroom management assessment cultural understanding idea based instructional strategies team teaching technology visual culture and student initiated learning The authors draw upon their own experiences and those of other high school art teachers to create a motivating and provocative text that challenges readers to critically and continually reflect collaborate read and research their own interdisciplinary thinking teaching and learning processes Publisher Play and Purpose Tyler Fewell,2017 In my study I investigated the influence of play in a high school art classroom and how it might open social avenues of student interaction challenge preconceptions of artmaking and engage the classroom in student lead learning and deemphasizing high stakes failure Given that the setting of my research was a school that thrived upon academic success using play as the crux of my investigation allowed me to ask How will students embrace failure through play in order to become more comfortable with experimentation How can the rules of play be used to safely engage students in meaning making activities and discussions I conducted my research over the course of seven consecutive weeks of full time student teaching at a suburban high school located in a generally affluent area on the north side of Chicago The student body was over eighty percent white and well over ninety percent of students were planning to attend some form of post secondary education The school as a whole was notorious for the intense amount of academic pressure it applied to its students and the atmosphere that cultivated in the student body During my time as a student teacher I taught a number of projects that were heavily based in choice making paintings and sculptures driven by student direction Day to day tasks included prompting groups and individuals with open ended questions and then positioning their responses in opposition to each other to promote classroom debate gamifying artmaking tasks and learning opportunities to foster student interest and using reflection questions that playfully consider the meaning in their artwork Due to the intuitive intangible nature of this instruction and research most of the evidence collected is based on my own observations and journaling though some has also been documented through written student responses and reflections Students often unknowingly participated in the utilization of play like tendencies in the studio to grapple with conceptual and technical obstacles as a group using games put students into the spotlight as the stars of their own learning The enactment of my research promoted a classroom environment where the weight of failure faded into the background as students became more interested in the process of learning and less concerned with the right answers My research thus far leads me to conclude that a playful art studio deepens student learning by connecting individuals and allow experimentation and failure to become welcome assets in the learning process principles of learning that others will find valuable in their own classrooms

Putting the Arts in the Picture Nick Rabkin, Robin Redmond, 2004 Across the country schools that integrate the arts into the fabric of the school day and across the curriculum defy educational odds and expectations These schools demonstrate that the arts are profoundly cognitive and engaging and that arts integration is a strategy within the reach of schools even in the poorest communities Putting the Arts in the Picture makes a powerful and original argument for placing the arts at the center of educational renewal The authors investigate the success of arts integrated schools and the programs that have supported them and explain why arts integration has such cognitive power Putting the Arts in the Picture places arts integration within the long arc of efforts to realize the democratic promise of public education and examines how other nations have mobilized the arts to focus young people s need to learn and grow Throughout the authors suggest practical strategies for educators policymakers school reformers philanthropists and parents that can make arts integration broadly available to the children who need it most Creating Meaning Through Literature and the Arts Claudia E.
