Spatiotemporal Models Of Population And Community Dynamics:

Spatiotemporal Models of Population and Community Dynamics T. Czaran, 1998 This book presents a comprehensive typology and a comprehensible description of spatiotemporal models used in population dynamics The main types included are reaction diffusion systems patch models metapopulation approaches host parasitoid models cellular automata interacting particle systems tessellations and distance models The models are introduced through examples and with informative verbal explanations to help understanding Some of the cellular automation examples are models not yet published elsewhere Possible extensions of certain model types are suggested Spatiotemporal Models of Population and Community Dynamics

Faith Cunningham, 2014-11-01 Numerical Analysis is a way to solve the real life mathematical physical and engineering problems Numerical Analysis can be used to answer the problems for which the analytical solution is not available

Spatio-Temporal Models for Ecologists James Thorson, Kasper Kristensen, 2024-02-27 Ecological dynamics are tremendously complicated and are studied at a variety of spatial and temporal scales Ecologists often simplify analysis by describing changes in density of individuals across a landscape and statistical methods are advancing rapidly for studying spatio temporal dynamics However spatio temporal statistics is often presented using a set of principles that may seem very distant from ecological theory or practice This book seeks to introduce a minimal set of principles and numerical techniques for spatio temporal statistics that can be used to implement a wide range of real world ecological analyses regarding animal movement population dynamics community composition causal attribution and spatial dynamics We provide a step by step illustration of techniques that combine core spatial analysis packages in R with low level computation using Template Model Builder Techniques are showcased using real world data from varied ecological systems providing a toolset for hierarchical modelling of spatio temporal processes Spatio Temporal Models for Ecologists is meant for graduate level students alongside applied and academic ecologists Key Features Foundational ecological principles and analyses Thoughtful and thorough ecological examples Analyses conducted using a minimal toolbox and fast computation Code using R and TMB included in the book and available online Individual-based Modeling and Ecology Volker Grimm, Steven F. Railsback, 2013-11-28

Individual based models are an exciting and widely used new tool for ecology These computational models allow scientists to explore the mechanisms through which population and ecosystem ecology arises from how individuals interact with each other and their environment This book provides the first in depth treatment of individual based modeling and its use to develop theoretical understanding of how ecological systems work an approach the authors call individual based ecology Grimm and Railsback start with a general primer on modeling how to design models that are as simple as possible while still allowing specific problems to be solved and how to move efficiently through a cycle of pattern oriented model design implementation and analysis Next they address the problems of theory and conceptual framework for individual based ecology What is theory That is how do we develop reusable models of how system dynamics arise from characteristics of individuals What conceptual framework do we use when the classical differential equation framework no longer applies An extensive review illustrates the ecological problems that have been addressed with individual based models The authors then identify how the mechanics of building and using individual based models differ from those of traditional science and provide guidance on formulating programming and analyzing models This book will be helpful to ecologists interested in modeling and to other scientists interested in agent based modeling
