The Digital Alchemist:

The Digital Alchemist Eric Marcus, 2002      The Digital Alchemist Elowen Ravenswood, 2024-10-08 In The Digital Alchemist Zara Chen is a successful marketing executive with synesthesia allowing her to see emotions as colors. Despite her achievements, Zara feels an overwhelming sense of discontent that manifests as unsettling colors in her vision. As she embarks on a journey to understand her dissatisfaction, Zara quits her corporate job and begins a quest to find her Personal Digital Legend. Along the way, she encounters mentors who challenge her views on technology, mindfulness, and sustainable living. Through a digital detox and encounters with off-grid communities, Zara reevaluates her relationship with technology and discovers how it can be used mindfully to connect people and foster positive change. Her journey ultimately leads her to a new purpose: harmonizing the digital world with a more meaningful, sustainable way of living.

The Digital Lives of Black Women in Britain Francesca Sobande, 2020-08-11 Based on interviews and archival research, this book explores how media is implicated in Black women's lives in Britain. From accounts of twentieth-century activism and television representations to experiences of YouTube and Twitter, Sobande's analysis traverses tensions between digital culture's communal, counter-cultural, and commercial qualities. Chapters 2 and 4 are available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link.springer.com.

Disrupting the Digital Humanities Dorothy Kim, Jesse Stommel, 2018 All too often, defining a discipline becomes more an exercise of exclusion than inclusion. Disrupting the Digital Humanities seeks to rethink how we map disciplinary terrain by directly confronting the gatekeeping impulse of many other so-called field-defining collections. What is most beautiful about the work of the Digital Humanities is exactly the fact that it can't be tidily anthologized. In fact, the desire to neatly define the Digital Humanities to filter the DH-y from the DH is a way of excluding the radically diverse work that actually constitutes the field. This collection then works to push and prod at the edges of the Digital Humanities to open the Digital Humanities rather than close it down. Ultimately, it's exactly the fringes, the outliers that make the Digital Humanities both lovely and rigorous. This collection does not constitute yet another reservoir for the new Digital Humanities canon. Rather, our aim is less about assembling content as it is about creating new conversations. Building a truly communal space for the digital humanities requires that we all approach that space with a commitment to: 1. creating open and non-hierarchical dialogues; 2. championing non-traditional work that might not otherwise be recognized through conventional scholarly channels; 3. amplifying marginalized voices; 4. advocating for students and learners; and 5. sharing generously to support the work of our peers.
