The Dying Patient:

The Dying Patient: a Nursing Perspective Mary H. Browning, Edith Patton Lewis, 1972 The Dying Patient Rita E. Caughill, 1976 The Dying Process Julia Lawton, 2002-01-04 Taking as its focus a highly emotive area of study The Dying Process draws on the experiences of daycare and hospice patients to provide a forceful new analysis of the period of decline prior to death Placing the bodily realities of dying very firmly centre stage and questioning the ideology central to the modern hospice movement of enabling patients to live until they die Julia Lawton shows how our concept of a good death is open to interpretation Her study examines the non negotiable effects of a patient's bodily deterioration on their sense of self and in so doing offers a powerful new perspective in embodiment and emotion in death and dying A detailed and subtle ethnographic study The Dying Process engages with a range of deeply complex and ethically contentious issues surrounding the care of dying patients in hospices and elsewhere Care of the Dying Patient David A. Fleming, John C. Hagan, 2010-04-15 Although the need for improved care for dying patients is widely recognized and frequently discussed few books address the needs of the physicians nurses social workers therapists hospice team members and pastoral counselors involved in care Care of the Dying Patient contains material not found in other sources offering advice and solutions to anyone professional caregiver or family member confronted with incurable illness and death Its authors have lectured and published extensively on care of the dying patient and here review a wide range of topics to show that relief of physical suffering is not the only concern in providing care This collection encompasses diverse aspects of end of life care across multiple disciplines offering a broad perspective on such central issues as control of pain and other symptoms spirituality the needs of caregivers and special concerns regarding the elderly In its pages readers will find out how to effectively utilize palliative care services and activate timely referral to hospice arrange for care that takes into account patients cultural beliefs and respond to spiritual and psychological distress including the loss of hope that often overshadows physical suffering The authors especially emphasize palliative care and hospice since some physicians fear that such referrals may be viewed by patients and families as abandonment They also address ethical and legal risks in pain management and warn that fear of overprescribing pain medication may inadvertently lead to ineffective pain relief and even place the treating team at risk of liability for undertreatment of pain While physicians have the ability to treat disease they also help to determine the time and place of death and they must recognize that end of life choices are made more complex than ever before by advances in medicine and at the same time increasingly important Care of the Dying Patient addresses some of the challenges frequently confronted in terminal care and points the way toward a more compassionate way of death The Dying Patient Orville Gilbert Brim, Sol Levine, Howard E. Freeman, 1980-10-31 Recommended for the provocative questions it raises concerning the effect on the patient of the structure of medical care concerning the important decisions regarding policy facing the medical profession the hospital administrator and the public and for the discussions of legal and economic dimensions which are frequently forgotten by personnel working directly with the patient Edmund C Payne Psychiatry in Medicine The fourteen original articles in The Dying Patient examine the problems of dying and medical conduct from the perspectives of sociology economics medicine and the law The Dying Patient Orville Brim,2020-02-18 Recommended

Person-Centered Care for the Dying Bonnie Freeman,2015-02-23 This groundbreaking reference for palliative care nurses is the first to provide realistic and achievable evidence based methods for incorporating compassionate and humanistic care of the dying into current standards of practice It builds on the author s research based CARES Tool a reference that synthesizes five key elements demonstrated to enable a peaceful death as free from suffering as possible Comfort Airway Management Management of Restlessness and Delirium Emotional and Spiritual Support and Self Care for Nurses The book describes step by step how nurses can easily implement the basic tenets of the CARES Tool into their end of life practice It provides a clearly defined plan that can be individualized for each patient and tailored to specific family needs and facilitates caring for the dying in the most respectful and humane way possible Caring for the Dying Patient and the Family

Janet Moscrop,Joy Robbins,2013-11-11 This third edition of a popular textbook has been completely revised by the joint editors Janet Moscrop and Joy Robbins As in previous editions the focus is on the person dying at home in residential care or in hospital and the emphasis is on teamwork in caring for the individual and their relatives and friends Experts in all aspects of care have contributed to this complete revision of the previous text and each chapter is written by a different member of the multiprofessional team The chapter on the terminal care of people suffering from AIDS has been enlarged and consideration is also given to care of those in the terminal stages of other non malignant diseases Other new material includes chapters on complementary therapy the use of the day centre the value of volunteers diversional therapy and respite care The chapter on bereavement covers many aspects of grief and loss and there is a sensitive approach to the need for supporting staff in this specialized work Consideration is also given to the needs of dying and grieving people from differing ethnic backgrounds with varying cultural expectations in a pluralistic society The third edition offers a broad overview of the support given to the dying person and the carers by medical and nursing staff physiotherapists pharmacists social workers the chaplaincy and members of the pastoral care team Students of all these disciplines should find this book both readable and informative Nursing the Dying Patient John Costello,2004-08-27 This text introduces the reader to the key issues surrounding care of the dying patient as well as highlighting the importance of context in the social management of dying

Written in a pragmatic style it provides a foundation from which to consider the theoretical and practical concerns that are central to terminal care in institutional as well as community based settings Illustrated with case studies that demonstrate how the themes of the book can be applied in practice this text encourages readers to reflect on research findings so that they are stimulated to formulate their own ideas about caring for dying patients The Dying Patient E. Wilkes,2012-12-06

The main purpose of this book is to bring together some description of the skills and attitudes of those working in the hospice units specializing in terminal care with those rather different but overlapping skills used daily in the palliation of chronic or incurable disease This varied collection of papers does not pretend to be exhaustive Among the omissions for example are two major causes of death chronic respiratory disease and stroke This is because the treatment of the end state of these conditions and they are not alone in this lies more in the gentle withdrawal of measures no longer appropriate rather than in any positive regime within the gift of the physician This may lead on occasion to an unjustifiable diminution of interest but this is less likely in cases of cardiac or malignant disease Ischaemic heart disease remains the main killer of the western world We may see important changes in our approach over the next decade as we document slowly and painstakingly the comparative ineffectiveness of our therapy but in cases of progressive cardiac disease no matter how we may argue as to management or prevention we are agreed that we must lighten the dreary burden of illness as effectively as possible The Relationship Between the Physician and the Dying Patient Ori Tzvieli,1998 Death and Dying Leonard Pearson,1969

Psychosocial Care of the Dying Patient Charles A. Garfield,1978 The Inevitable Hour Emily K. Abel,2013-05-01

Changes in health care have dramatically altered the experience of dying in America At the turn of the twentieth century medicine's imperative to cure disease increasingly took priority over the demand to relieve pain and suffering at the end of life Filled with heartbreaking stories The Inevitable Hour demonstrates that professional attention and resources gradually were diverted from dying patients Emily K Abel challenges three myths about health care and dying in America First that medicine has always sought authority over death and dying second that medicine superseded the role of families and spirituality at the end of life and finally that only with the advent of the high tech hospital did an institutional death become dehumanized Abel shows that hospitals resisted accepting dying patients and often worked hard to move them elsewhere Poor terminally ill patients for example were shipped from Bellevue Hospital in open boats across the East River to Blackwell's Island where they died in hovels mostly without medical care Some terminal patients were not forced to leave yet long before the advent of feeding tubes and respirators dying in a hospital was a profoundly dehumanizing experience With technological advances passage of the Social Security Act and enactment of Medicare and Medicaid almshouses slowly disappeared and conditions for dying patients improved though as Abel argues the prejudices and approaches of the past are still with us The problems that plagued nineteenth century almshouses can be found in many nursing homes today where residents often receive substandard treatment A frank portrayal of the medical care of dying people past and present The

Inevitable Hour helps to explain why a movement to restore dignity to the dying arose in the early 1970s and why its goals have been so difficult to achieve

The Nurse and the Dying Patient Jeanne Quint Benoliel, 1967 Aufbauend auf den Ergebnissen einer umfassenden Studie zu der Frage welche Bedeutung die Begegnung mit dem Tod für Patienten und Beschäftigte im Krankenhaus hat will das Buch dabei helfen die Auseinandersetzung mit dem Tod und den Umgang mit Sterbenden für den Pflegeunterricht aufzubereiten Dabei behandelt es die Curriculumentwicklung ebenso wie die Einstellungen von Lehrenden zum Tod Außerdem werden Gespräche mit Sterbenden und die Möglichkeiten der Verarbeitung von Tod und Sterben im Krankenhaus beschrieben

Dying and Death in Oncology Lawrence Berk, 2016-10-11 This book brings together in one volume many important topics about death and dying including the pathophysiology of death the causes of death among cancer patients the ethics of death the legal aspects of death for the physician and for the patient and caregivers the economics of death the medical management of the dying patient including pain and dyspnea the prediction of death and the spiritual management of the dying patient It also discusses other medical and humanistic aspects of death and dying such as the historical definition of death and various cultures and religions viewpoints on death and the afterlife Everybody including every patient with cancer will die and every physician will have to assist dying patients Oncologists face this prospect more often than many physicians And yet to date there has been no comprehensive textbook on Thanatology the academic discipline studying death and dying to assist oncologists in this difficult task This book will help the physician to understand his or her own relationship with death and to communicate about death and dying with the patient and the patient's caregivers
