The Early Earth James Badro, Michael J. Walter, 2015 The Early Earth Accretion and Differentiation provides a multidisciplinary overview of the state of the art in understanding the formation and primordial evolution of the Earth The fundamental structure of the Earth as we know it today was inherited from the initial conditions 4 56 billion years ago as a consequence of planetesimal accretion large impacts among planetary objects and planetary scale differentiation The evolution of the Earth from a molten ball of metal and magma to the tectonically active dynamic habitable planet that we know today is unique among the terrestrial planets and understanding the earliest processes that led to Earth's current state is the essence of this volume Important results have emerged from a wide range of disciplines including cosmochemistry geochemistry experimental petrology experimental and theoretical mineral physics and geodynamics The topics in this volume include Condensation of primitive objects in the solar nebula planetary building blocks Early and late accretion and planetary dynamic modeling Primordial differentiation core formation Magma Ocean evolution and crystallization This volume will be a valuable resource for graduate students academics and researchers in the fields of geophysics geochemistry cosmochemistry and planetary science
