World Development Report 1993 ,1994    World Development Report 1993 ,1993-01-01    World Development Report 1996 ,1996 Almost one third of the world s population has embarked on a transition from planned to market economies Like economic reforms elsewhere the long term goal of this transition is to build a thriving market economy capable of delivering long term growth in living standards Now in its 19th annual edition the World Development Report 1996 takes an in depth look at these transition countries focusing on the key lessons that have taken place thus far The introduction to the Report poses a number of key questions that are addressed in later chapters including questions relating to initial challenges and how contries have tackled them from very different starting points and political conditions The Report also focuses on the additional challenges these transition countries face with a final chapter that summarizes the main conclusion of the Report creating a text that will no doubt become the definitive source for students styding international economics and politics    World Development Indicators ,1983    World Development Report 1993 ,1993    World Development Report ,1999    Global Environmental Challenges of the Twenty-First Century David E. Lorey,2002-10-01 The most serious environmental problems of the twenty first century have the potential to alter the course of life on this planet Global warming toxic waste water and air pollution acid rain and shrinking energy supplies are frightening challenges that may threaten our future if we do not face up to them Global Environmental Challenges provides important information and gives us hope about the environment This book first helps us to grasp these difficulties then shows us the choices we can make How long to leave a light on whether to take the car the train or bicycle to work whether to recycle or throw away whether to vote to curb continued suburban sprawl all of these decisions can make a difference This collection of some of the best essays and articles on the environment comes from a variety of sources including journals magazines websites of ecological conservation organizations and other publications Five major sections investigate the interaction of population growth consumption and environment the emerging crisis in freshwater around the globe global climate and atmosphere including global warming biodiversity loss and the concept of sustainable development using natural resources to place future human development on a sustainable path The final section on sustainable development reveals how we can take action As individuals we can make a difference readily and easily without making huge personal sacrifices As societies we can work together in a global community of interest to sustain the earth This valuable resource offers readers a better understanding of our environmental problems and presents solutions to improving the health of the planet    World Development Report 2007 Emmanuel Jimenez,World Bank,2006 Developing countries which invest in better education healthcare and job training for their young people between the ages of 12 and 24 years of age could produce economic growth and sharply reduced poverty With 1 3 billion young people now living in the developing world the largest ever youth group in history the report says there has never been a better time to invest in youth because they are healthier and better educated than previous generations and they will join the workforce with fewer dependents because of changing demographics. The report says that young people make up nearly half of the ranks of the world's unemployed and as for example in the Middle East and North Africa region must create 100 million jobs by 2020 in order to stabilize its employment situation. Moreover, surveys of young people in East Asia and Eastern Europe and Central Asia carried out as research for the report indicate that access to jobs along with physical security is their biggest concern. Far too many young people, some 130 million 15-24 year olds cannot read or write. Secondary education and skill acquisition make sense only if primary schooling has been successful. This is still far from being the case and efforts have to be reinforced in this area. In addition, more than 20 percent of firms in countries such as Algeria, Bangladesh, Brazil, China, Estonia, and Zambia rate poor education and work skills among their workforce. Overcoming this handicap starts with more and better investments in youth. The report highlights three areas to promote better investment in the future: expanding opportunities, enhancing capabilities, and providing second chances. Expanding opportunities focuses on increasing the quality of education, smoothing the transition to work, and providing young people with a platform for civic engagement. Enhancing capabilities involves making young people aware of the consequences of their actions, especially consequences that will affect them much later in life, as well as building their decision-making skills and giving them the right incentives. Providing second chances calls for helping young people recover from missed opportunities through remedial education, retraining, treatment, and rehabilitation.

World Development Indicators, 2002      Southeast Asian Security in the New Millennium Richard J. Ellings, Sheldon W. Simon, 1996 Based on a National Bureau of Asian Research study undertaken in 1991-92. This collection of eight essays examines growth, domestic politics, and economics, traditional state-to-state relations, balance of power considerations, and the rising presence of China and Japan. World Development Report, 2000/2001, 2000      World Development Indicators 2002 World Bank, 2002 This publication presents a comprehensive range of data relating to levels of economic and social development throughout the world. It contains over 80 tables and 600 indicators for 148 economies and 14 country groups, with basic indicators for a further 59 economies. It includes a report on the progress made towards achieving the Millennium Development Goals and indicators relating to poverty, education, health, and welfare, gender, and development, information technology, and the digital divide, the environment, and sustainable development, the economy, and trade. Most of the statistics are compiled from data provided by national statistical agencies.

Health Systems Policy, Finance, and Organization Guy Carrin, Kent Buse, Kristian Heggenhougen, Stella R. Quah, 2010-05-22 This volume is unique in its systematic approach to these three pillars of health systems analysis. It will give readers of various backgrounds authoritative material about subjects adjacent to their own specialties. Assembling such comparative materials is usually an onerous task because so many programs possess their own vocabularies, goals, and methods. This book will provide common grounds for people in programs as diverse as economics and finance allied health business and management and the social sciences including psychology Gives readers of various backgrounds authoritative material about subjects adjacent to their own specialties Provides common grounds for people in programs as diverse as economics and finance allied health business and management and the social sciences including psychology

Traffic in Asian Women Laura Hyun Yi Kang, 2020-08-14 In Traffic in Asian Women Laura Hyun Yi Kang demonstrates that the figure of Asian women functions as an analytic with which to understand the emergence decline and permutation of U S power knowledge at the nexus of capitalism state power global governance and knowledge production throughout the twentieth century Kang analyzes the establishment suppression forgetting and illegibility of the Japanese military comfort system 1932 1945 within that broader geohistorical arc Although many have upheld the comfort women case as exemplary of both the past violation and the contemporary empowerment of Asian women Kang argues that it has profoundly destabilized the imaginary unity and conceptual demarcation of the category Kang traces how Asian women have been alternately distinguished and effaced as subjects of the traffic in women sexual slavery and violence against women She also explores how specific modes of redress and justice were determined by several overlapping geopolitical and economic changes ranging from U S guided movements of capital across Asia and the end of the Cold War to the emergence of new media technologies that facilitated the global circulation of comfort women stories

Government Reports Annual Index ,1994 Population in Asia Warren C. Sanderson, Jee-Peng Tan, 1996 This study attempts to inform discussion about population issues in Asia in 1990 a region with half the world s population This study addresses a wide range of topics including past patterns of population growth and its underlying determinants the design of family planning programmes and the implications of population prospects for macroeconomic and sectoral policies Its approach is comparative analysis based on country level data The findings in this study are properly viewed as first steps toward designing country specific interventions Three overall messages emerge concerning population policies a the effectiveness of Asia s family planning programs in sustaining further fertility decline can be improved b investments in family planning services are essential but not sufficient to bring about sustained fertility declines to replacement level and c substantial population increase is unavoidable in the short run say the next 40 years presenting substantial challenges for development policies
