Spaceship To The Unknown:

Special Relativity Michael Tsampanlis, 2010-05-17 Writing a new book on the classic subject of Special Relativity on which numerous important physicists have contributed and many books have already been written can be like adding another epic cycle to the Ptolemaic cosmology. Furthermore, it is our belief that if a book has no new elements but simply repeats what is written in the existing literature, perhaps with a different style, then this is not enough to justify its publication. However, after having spent a number of years both in class and research with relativity, I have come to the conclusion that there exists a place for a new book. Since it appears that somewhere along the way, mathematics may have obscured and prevailed to the degree that we tend to teach relativity and I believe theoretical physics simply using heavier mathematics without the inspiration and the mastery of the classic physicists of the last century. Moreover, current trends encourage the application of techniques in producing quick results and not tedious conceptual approaches resulting in long-lasting reasoning. On the other hand, physics cannot be done à la carte, stripped from philosophy or to put it in a simple but dramatic context. A building is not an accumulation of stones. As a result of the above, a major aim in the writing of this book has been the distinction between the mathematics of Minkowski space and the physics of relativity.

Architecture in Cinema Nevnihal Erdoğan, Hikmet Temel Akarsu, 2024-04-26 In Architecture in Cinema, more than 40 architects, writers, thinkers, and academicians examine the magnificent works of cinema that contribute to the art of architecture and bring them to the attention of the architectural community. The contributors have compiled essays on fifty masterpieces of classic and contemporary cinema, including films such as The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari, Ben-Hur, The Lord of the Rings trilogy, Nomadland, and more. The book aims to stimulate the imagination of readers and offer approaches to understanding fantasy, sociological concepts, ecological problems, and political ideas. The contributors also focus on the elements of creativity, such as utopian or dystopian themes, aesthetics, and artistry. Architecture in Cinema is an informative reference for anyone interested in how architecture is featured in the cinematic medium. Scholars of architecture, urban planning, fine arts, humanities, social sciences, and various design disciplines will also find the book refreshing.

Into the Unknown Andy Murray, 2006 The first full biography of Nigel Kneale, creator of the legendary British sci-fi series Quatermass. Kneale's work has continued to influence not only the sci-fi genre but the film and television industry in general, with big business names as diverse as John Landis, Steven Spielberg, John Carpenter, and the League of Gentlemen citing him as an inspiration. Blending elements of sci-fi and horror with intelligent, powerful drama, Kneale's works are acknowledged classics. This is the first book to assess their pioneering nature.

The Unpredictable Elina Salajeva, Elinadeivid, 2018-06-30 A rescue mission becomes a quest for survival. At the turn of the century, nature became man's greatest enemy and threatened the survival of mankind, and especially of the Emperor's bloodline. Earth became inhabitable at night. Scientists discovered a membrane above earth.

The Science Fiction Fantasy Film Handbook Alan Frank, 1982-12 This book is a comprehensive and detailed guide to a genre of enduring popular appeal. Several hundred films are covered in entries that provide technical credits and cast lists, a plot synopsis, and a quotation from a contemporary review, complimentary or otherwise. The films are illustrated by over 200 stills. More than 50 biographies of movie personalities, including performers, directors, producers, and writers, are supplied. In addition, the author has written a series of short essays on major themes in science fiction and fantasy films.

Syeel is aboard a small space transporter when it is attacked by the Usurper's flagship. Together with ten Legaric space soldiers and his two faithful companions, Schrack and Zschuck, whom he saved from death, they try to take over the ship when Altea appears. A battle between the despot Mreckk saah Mahl and Syeel ensues during which the flagship FERGAS crashes, heavily damaged, on the planet Soleit in the solar system SOSEMT. Altea is apparently killed in the crash. Mreckk saah Mahl can escape in the last minutes with a dinghy. Syeel, on the other hand, is taken in by the Chron Bastion TILMUN, badly injured, and transformed.

Although the exploration of space has long preoccupied authors and filmmakers, the development of an actual space program, discoveries about the true nature of space, and critical reconsiderations of America's frontier experiences have challenged and complicated conventional portrayals of humans in space. This volume reexamines the themes of space and the frontier in science fiction in light of recent scientific and literary developments. From this new perspective, we discern previously unnoticed commentaries from older authors, while newer writers either remain within a reassuring but obsolete tradition, venture into unexplored new realities, or abandon space to focus on other frontiers. The intriguing contributions to this volume include a previously unpublished interview with Arthur C. Clarke, the world's greatest living author of science fiction; examinations of space opera by veteran author Jack Williamson and scholar David Pringle; surveys of space in science fiction film and writer and producer Michael Cassutt's account of his efforts to launch a film based on a Clifford D. Simak novel; and speculations about future developments from noted writers Gregory Benford, Jack Dann, James Gunn, and Howard V. Hendrix.
