Rosenthal,2005     Digitalization and Women's Rights Muharrem Kılıç,Sezer Bozkuş Kahyaoğlu,2025-10-20 Technological advancements frequently hinder the progress of women in the business sphere In our current landscape the rapid evolution of technology driven by digital transformation has created significant barriers to women s participation This has given rise to new forms of discrimination that often go unacknowledged and unaddressed The unfortunate reality is that this issue is sidelined in discussions about the economy and broader implications for employment We must recognize and confront the unique challenges women face in this technological age as their exclusion not only impacts them but also stifles innovation and growth in our economy It is time to advocate for a more inclusive approach that empowers women in the tech world In this vital context it is essential to recognize the discrimination and emerging challenges that women will face although these issues may not have been previously explored in sufficient detail This work has been thoughtfully created to fill that gap serving as a crucial reference about these matters By shedding light on existing gaps in the research this book promises to enrich future studies and provide invaluable insights for researchers who investigate and evaluate related works One of the most pressing challenges ahead for women in the rapidly evolving digital landscape is understanding and navigating the economic opportunities available to them As we enter this new era women will undergo a transformative journey that demands adaptability and learning in the face of continuous innovation This work aspires to contribute significantly to these conversations and empower women as they embrace the future     Empowering India Through Digital Literacy (Vol. 2) Dr. S. Kalaivani & Dr. K. Saileela,     Women and Computer Based Technologies Hope Morrirt,1997-05-08 This book highlights the diversity of professional women in education who use computer based technologies They represent differences in socioeconomic status ethnicity and age They were selected for this study because they use computer based technologies in their daily work The conceptual framework underlying this research is feminist standpoint theory Standpoint theory in this study stems from the work of Harding 1991 who has grounded standpoint theory in eight claims These claims were connected to clusters that were organized into segments that could be contrasted compared and analyzed Themes were developed and photographs were used to operationalize the cluster categories Methodology used for this study included three structured interviews The first interview elicited background information Interview two used the photographs as an auto driving technique to stimulate discussion The third interview asked the respondents to validate their narratives and to describe their reactions to the feminist perspective Results of this study demonstrate the importance of valuing women s lives as starting points for research and as generators of evidence for or against knowledge claims specifically as their lives relate to computer based technologies Women need to learn to value and network with other women in the use of technology These respondents early learning experiences reflect the cultural agenda and an absence of hands on science activities They also encounter gender oppression in many forms in their daily life experiences Although they all had opportunities to engage in computer learning at different stages of their life the time to learn and the opportunities to access computers were constraints that prevented further advancement These women educators predict positive futures for girls who are computer literate but warn of the potential of the increasing power of technology to divide women in our society into the haves and the have nots Implications and practical applications from

Humanizing Technology Elizabeth Gerver,2012-12-06 A few years ago a book of this type and style could not or would not have been written This is because until a few years ago no real in depth knowl edge of computers and computerized equipment was at the disposal of those with a nonscience nonquantitative background Some people from other disciplines including business the arts and the social sciences had been working with such equipment but they had gone over and tended to be even more computer conscious than those whom they served It is only comparatively recently that people like Elisabeth Gerver with a firm arts and adult education background first of all became knowledgeable and then remained true to that background To her eternal credit Elisabeth Gerver when she became involved avoided being sucked into the world of the jargon or even that of the thinking of the computer scientists and the electronic engineers On the contrary she insisted that she was an educated woman dealing with other educated people and that they would all speak in the language of everyday discourse It worked One consequence of her experience and her thought is this remarkably lucid and readable book It will prove to be of immense value to many in the world of adult and community education But the beneficiaries will run beyond those sectors of society Other people with a nonscience nonquantitative background will surely find it of immense value in their early inevitably hesitant and faulty grappling with the world of new technology

open access book presents a systematic investigation into internationally comparable data gathered in ICILS 2013 It identifies differences in female and male students use of perceptions about and proficiency in using computer technologies Teachers use of computers and their perceptions regarding the benefits of computer use in education are also analyzed by gender When computer technology was first introduced in schools there was a prevailing belief that information and communication technologies were boys toys boys were assumed to have more positive attitudes toward using computer technologies As computer technologies have become more established throughout societies gender gaps in students computer and information literacy appear to be closing although studies into gender differences remain sparse The IEA s International Computer and Information Literacy Study ICILS is designed to discover how well students are prepared for study work and life in the digital age Despite popular beliefs a critical finding of ICILS 2013 was that internationally girls tended to score more highly than boys so why are girls still not entering technology based careers to the same extent as boys Readers will learn how male and female students differ in their computer literacy both general and specialized and use of computer technology and how the perceptions held about those technologies vary by gender Learning Our Way St. Christopher House (Toronto, Ont.). Information Technology and Women's Lives, 1996      Women's Information Directory, 1992 Shawn Brennan, 1993-12-31 The Women's Information Directory (WID) is a comprehensive guide to resources for and about women in the United States. Media Report to Women, 1982      Documentation on Women, Children, and Human Rights, 2002      Women and Public Policy, 1997      Women's Access to Higher Education in Africa Joy C. Kwesiga, 2002 This book addresses the gender divide in access to higher education and the Ugandan situation. It examines theories of girls' education, human capital, gender inequality and gender development, bringing views from Africa and its institutions to debates often constructed and conducted in the West. Whilst commending the work of women's movements and NGOs in furthering the educational cause, it criticises fashionable neo-liberal economic and educational policies which are diverting resources, not institutions, thus diminishing local universities and women. The volume also presents the results of a survey of female undergraduates at the University of Makerere which give rise to discussions about family, societal and institutional influences on women's access to higher education. This is a welcome book on women in higher education, written by an African female academic insider and popular and outstanding contributor to the progress of women in higher education in East Africa.
