Technology And Capital Formation:

Technology and Capital Formation Dale Weldeau Jorgenson, Ralph Landau, 1989-01 The contributions in this book bring a wealth of detailed empirical data and an unusually wide range of perspectives from universities government and business to bear on the exploration of this important interrelationship they focus in particular on the role of capital in the production process

Capital Formation, Technology, and Economic Policy Barry Bosworth, 1983 Capital Formation and Investment in Venture Markets Paul Alan Gompers, 1999 Capital Formation and Investment in Venture Markets Paul Alan Gompers, National Bureau of Economic Research, 2000 Capital Formation and Economic Growth Richard S. Rural Capital Formation and Technology Dale W. Adams, 1971 Encouraging Capital Formation in Key Sectors of the Economy United States. Congress. House. Committee on Financial Services. Subcommittee on Domestic Monetary Policy, Technology, and Economic Growth, 2002 Measurement of Technological Change Solomon Fabricant, 1965 Conference report on a seminar on manpower policy and programme to examine the measurement of technological change and of productivity in the USA comprises a paper and record of discussions on the implications of technological change in respect of labour force trends and employment policy Conference held in Washington 1964 October 23 Technology and the Wealth of Nations, 1992-10 Most discussions of U S economic competitiveness focus on the creation of new technologies but the abundant evidence presented in this timely book indicates that the key factor underpinning U S competitiveness is not the development of technology itself but the factors that influence the commercialization of technology The importance of effective management and performance in the commercialization of new technologies reflects today s changing environment The post war decades of undisputed U S scientific and technological hegemony have been replaced by a period in which U S firms are challenged by foreign competitors in some fields and struggling to regain their former positions in others Although the U S scientific research establishment arguably has lost little if any of its post war preeminence the same cannot be said

with respect to the performance of U S firms as developers adapters and managers of new technologies largely because government policies have not been conducive to successful commercialization of technology As we enter the last decade of the twentieth century economic policy and performance are being linked more and more closely to technology related issues Technology commercialization is now recognized as critical to this linkage and this book constitutes a state of the art analysis of this vital but often overlooked aspect of technological innovation The sixteen papers in this volume contribute to three important tasks First they draw on new developments in theoretical and empirical analysis to integrate the macro and microeconomic dimensions of technological innovation and commercialization Second they extend and enrich the macroeconomic analysis of growth capital formation and international economic interactions to highlight the influences of macroeconomic variables on technology commercialization Technology and capital investment are shown to be complementary inputs to the growth process which means that favorable investment conditions are prerequisites for higher growth rates Third they also extend and enrich the microeconomic analysis of technological innovation and commercialization in the process providing guidance for managers seeking to improve performance in both of the areas
