CHALLENGES OF AGING IN PLACE

The Challenges Of Aging

James C. Fisher, Henry C. Simmons

The Challenges Of Aging:

Grand Challenges of Our Aging Society National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Center for Economic, Governance, and International Studies, 2010-03-04 Aging populations are generating both challenges and opportunities for societies around the globe. Increases in longevity and improvements in health raise many questions: What steps can be taken to optimize physical and cognitive health and productivity across the life span? How will older people finance their retirement and health care? What will be the macroeconomic implications of an aging population? How will communities be shaped by the shift in age structure? What global interconnections will affect how each society handles the aging of its population? To address these questions, the National Academies organized a symposium summarized in the present volume to determine how best to contribute to an evidence-based dialogue on population aging that will shape policies and programs. Presentations in the fields of biology, public health, medicine, informatics, macroeconomics, finance, urban planning, and engineering approached the challenges of aging from many different angles. The presenters reviewed the current state of knowledge in their respective fields, identifying areas of consensus and controversy and delineating the priority questions for further research and policy development.

Aging Reimagined Azhar ul Haque Sario, 2024-12-25 Forget everything you thought you knew about aging. Aging Reimagined throws out the old rulebook and explores the Third Age, that period after middle age with fresh eyes. We're living longer. We're staying healthier. And this book dives deep into what that REALLY means for individuals and society. Think of it as your guide to the future of aging. We'll cover everything from the booming silver market to the mind-blowing potential of AgeTech. We'll explore how to build stronger communities, nurture lifelong learning, and even understand the aging brain. Plus, we'll tackle tough questions about ethics, caregiving, and finding purpose in this new stage of life. Now here's the thing: most books on aging focus on the problems. The decline. The challenges. This book flips the script. We uncover the opportunities of the Third Age. We explore how to make these years your best yet. And we provide a roadmap for building a world where everyone can thrive, no matter their age. It's a call to action for policymakers, researchers, and anyone who wants to be part of this exciting new chapter in human history.

A Journey Called Aging James C. Fisher, Henry C. Simmons, 2012-11-12 A Journey Called Aging presents an insightful exploration of the years between the entry into older adulthood and death. This text examines the significant changes and major landmarks of older persons between 60 and 90. Grounded by a developmental framework based on empirical research, this book presents a new way of looking at older adulthood, describing the older adult years in intensely human terms through both anecdotes and research-based findings to engage the reader as both guide and traveler. Using a series of sequential stages as a framework, A Journey Called Aging discusses the experiences of older adults, addressing the challenges and opportunities presented at each stage. This clear analysis can be used as a guide to help persons plan their own odyssey through the older years. Topics in A Journey Called Aging include research and results of the study entering older adulthood.

The Evening of Life Joseph E. Davis, Paul Scherz, 2020-09-30 Although philosophy religion and civic cultures used to help people prepare for aging and dying well this is no longer the case Today aging is frequently seen as a problem to be solved and death as a harsh reality to be masked In part our cultural confusion is rooted in an inadequate conception of the human person which is based on a notion of absolute individual autonomy that cannot but fail in the face of the dependency that comes with aging and decline at the end of life To help correct the ethical impoverishment at the root of our contemporary social confusion The Evening of Life provides an interdisciplinary examination of the challenges of aging and dying well It calls for a re envisioning of cultural concepts practices and virtues that embraces decline dependency and finitude rather than stigmatizes them Bringing together the work of sociologists anthropologists philosophers theologians and medical practitioners this collection of essays develops an interrelated set of conceptual tools to discuss the current challenges posed to aging and dying well such as flourishing temporality narrative and friendship Above all it proposes a positive understanding of thriving in old age that is rooted in our shared vulnerability as human beings It also suggests how some of these tools and concepts can be deployed to create a medical system that better responds to our contemporary needs The Evening of Life will interest bioethicists medical practitioners clinicians and others involved in the care of the aging and dying Contributors Joseph E Davis Sharon R Kaufman Paul Scherz Wilfred M McClay Kevin Aho Charles Guignon Bryan S Turner Janelle S Taylor Sarah L Szanton Janiece Taylor and Justin Mutter

Proceedings of the 1991 International Symposium on Data on Aging Manning Feinleib, 1993 Strengthening the Scientific Foundation for Policymaking to Meet the Challenges of Aging in Latin America and the Caribbean National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Steering Committee for the Workshop on Strengthening the Scientific Foundation for Policymaking to Meet the Challenges of Aging in Latin America and the Caribbean, 2015-09-18 Recent demographic trends in the Latin American and Caribbean LAC region will shape the growth and age composition of its populations for decades to come The rapid mortality decline that began during the 1950s and the more recent and even sharper reduction in fertility will produce unusually high rates of growth of the older population a large change in overall population age composition and significant increases in the ratio of older to younger population

According to the 2013 United Nations projections the number of people aged 60 and over in LAC is expected to increase from 59 million in 2010 to 196 million in 2050 and the number of people aged 80 and over will increase from 8.6 million to more than 44 million during the same period. To explore the process of rapid aging in the LAC a workshop took place at the National Academy of Medicine in May 2015. Participants of the workshop presented scientific research emphasizing what is unique about aging in LAC and what is similar to other processes around the world. It highlighted the main areas where knowledge of the aging process in LAC is insufficient and new research is required and proposed data collection that will produce information for policymaking while being responsive to the needs of the research community for harmonized highly comparable information. The workshop afforded participants an opportunity to consider strategies for articulating data collection and research in the region so that country based teams can reap the benefits from being part of a larger enterprise while simultaneously maintaining their own individuality and responding to the particular needs of each country. Strengthening the Scientific Foundation for Policymaking to Meet the Challenges of Aging in Latin America and the Caribbean summarizes the presentations and discussions of the workshop.
