Time Sharing Computer Systems:

Time-sharing Computer Systems Maurice Vincent Wilkes,1972 Use of a Time-shared Computer System to Control a Hall Effect Experiment W. Murray Bullis,United States. National Bureau of Standards,1969 An experimental time shared computer system has been used to control and collect data from a Hall effect experiment In addition to selection of the voltage sequence and control of specimen current and magnetic flux directions the computer exerts positive control over the specimen temperature in accordance with a series of thermocouple voltages entered by the operator at the beginning of the run The interface circuitry is constructed from four general purpose modules and a single special purpose unit Details of the interface system and the programs used to control the experiment and to perform intermediate calculations are given It was found that the time shared system was well suited to control an experiment of this type The demands on the computer were essentially similar to those required by a human user interacting in a conversational mode Substantial savings in time over manual data collection and reduction were realized a temperature run with 38 to 40 data points between 10 and 320 K could be completed in less than 4 hours An Analysis of Time-shared Computer Systems Allan L. Scherr,1965 Some of the aspects of the operation of time shared interactive computer systems are analyzed The emphasis is on the reaction of hardware systems to the demands that its users make upon it Simply stated the problem is to characterize both time shared systems and their users in order to be able to predict the performance of the two operating together Portions of this problem include the specification and measurement of user characteristics the development and verification of both simulation and mathematical models for time shared systems and the specification and measurement of performance metrics for such systems The user and some of the performance measurements were made on Project MAC s Compatible Time Sharing System CTSS Author Time-sharing Systems Gordon M.
