Abstract Communication identity is incorporated into three cultural contexts (individual, communal and public). Studies in this field have been around since the 90 s. Researchers conduct studies from various perspectives and different issues. This bibliometric study examines research patterns over a certain period of time using the keyword communication identity. The prioritized research question is What are the current trends in communication identity publications? What are the most popular themes in research on communication identity? So that it can be seen the urgency of research when it has found an important theme in the topic of communication identity. The data used is through the Scopus database in 1983-2023. The study findings show that the number of publications regarding communication identity has increased and decreased in certain years, while starting in 2022 it has started to increase and is expected to continue. The theme that became the focus of the study of communication identity found 7 main themes and found the soup topics of each topic. These topics are communication, group, identity, personal, identity gap, relational, and relationship. The urgency in the study of communication identity in the model found by researchers.

1. Introduction

Identity is an ongoing process in which an individual determines, evaluates, and redefines who they are and how they relate to others in their environment. Identity is the main source of motivation for human behavior (Animashaun, 2023; Leitch & Harrison, 2016) and is a process that governs the social-cognitive strategies used to build, maintain, reconstruct personal identity and understand oneself through social roles (Di, 2011; Schwartz et al., 2011; Zhou et al., 2022). Identity is needed in a wide range of cultures to describe their respective individuals (Littlejohn et al., 2009). This identity includes personal, communal and public aspects. The existence of an identity becomes a link between the individual and the community that allows for good communication. Identity is a process of continuity in which individuals determine, evaluate and redefine who and how individuals behave toward others in their surroundings.

Self-identity is formed by a person either interacting personally with himself or interacting with his social environment. This identity consists of meanings learned and obtained from oneself as well as those meanings projected onto others when carrying out the communication process. The existence of identity can also be used as a meaning or a symbol to identify individual membership in a diverse community (Hecht et al., 2003; Kulper, 2021). According to communication identity, when talking about identity, it combines three contexts, namely, individual, communal and public. The context of all three describes an integrated relationship, although each context can stand alone. Communication identity is a theory proposed by Michael Hecht; the basic premise of this theory is that identity is inherently a communicative process that must be understood as a transaction in which messages are exchanged (Hecht et al., 2002; Jung & Hecht, 2004; Kam & Hecht, 2009; Shin & Hecht, 2017). Messages are symbolic relationships between people who are part of the identity attestation process (Hecht, 1993; Hecht et al., 2002).

Identity formation is understood as a communication identity process that occurs through four layers, namely, the personal layer, the attestation layer, the relational layer, and the communal layer (Hecht & Choi, 2012). Each of these layers is formed in an integrated way. However, each individual basically has interpretations of different layers of communication identity because they are influenced by several factors, such as the environment, way of interacting, and personal factors. This can then cause conflicts between layers of a person's communication identity. The conflict between layers then causes an identity gap (Hosek & Rubinsky, 2019; Kulper, 2021; Stewart, 2022a), so an adaptation process is needed to overcome this gap. The key concepts in communication identity (Day & Novak, 2022; Hecht, 1993; Jung & Hecht, 2004) are four layers of identity. These layers are personal, enactment, relational and communal layers that interact and are influenced by each other. The four layers of identity do not exist separately because they are interconnected with each other. However, for analytical purposes, the layers are often defined and understood separately.

The identity of communication outlines the nature of the individual, social and communal. It has a subjective meaning and an original meaning, which then encodes what is expressed in speech and defines membership in the community. This
