Halpern* Roger John Brownlow Keyes, Paul G. (editor) Halpern, 1972      The Keyes Papers Roger Keyes, 2019-05-13 Roger John Brownlow Keyes first Baron Keyes 1872-1945 Keyes was a controversial man during his lifetime and has remained so ever since. His correspondence and papers is a vast collection held at Churchill College Cambridge and these volumes are just a selection of them. There has been renewed interest in the period since the publication of Professor Ranft's The Beatty Papers NRS Vols 128-132 in 1989 and 1993 and Professor Halpern followed these volumes with his Naval History of World War I in 1994. A full grasp of the participants and the controversies in Keyes's early naval career up to 1930 can only be obtained by starting with the 2 volumes of The Jellicoe Papers NRS Vols 108-111 and Beatty Papers. Other relevant NRS volumes are The Cunningham Papers Vols I-II NRS Vols 140-150 and the Somerville Papers NRS Vol 134. Volume I 1914-1918 has a brief introduction which covers Keyes's life before World War I culminating in his appointment as Commodore second class and head of the Submarine Service. He had achieved early promotion for services during the Boxer Rising and was thus one of the rising stars of the Royal Navy. He was present in the confused battle of Heligoland Bight in August 1914 and then Dogger Bank December 1914. Keyes was appointed Chief of Staff to Rear Admiral Carden and travelled to the Dardanelles in February 1915. It was in many ways the high point of his naval career as it was the only occasion in which he had the chance to influence the course of history. The controversy over Gallipoli still runs today and Keyes is an important figure in that controversy. His daily letters to his wife which acted as a diary are an essential source for any student of the campaign. In April 1917 he was promoted Rear Admiral and in June he took the position of Second in Command of the Fourth battle Squadron. He did not long remain in command as he was soon on his way to the Admiralty as Director of Plans. This was a new section of the Naval Staff and was concerned with strategic planning. Keyes later took over command of the Dover Straits. The raid on Zeebrugge on 23rd April was undoubtedly one of the most dramatic events of the whole war and appeared to be a qualified success. Certainly the public adored it and Keyes was immediately created KCBE.

The Keyes Papers Vol 1 1914-1918 Roger John Brownlow Keyes, 1972      Briefe, engl. The Keyes papers Roger John Brownlow Lord Keyes, Paul G. Halpern, 1972      The Keyes Papers Paul G. Halpern, 2019-04-24 The start of Volume III 1939-1945 finds Keyes in a frustrating position. Too young for fleet

command in the First World War he was now too old for command in the Second World War Keyes's temperament did not allow him to suffer in silence His criticisms of the Naval Staff and implicitly of the government reached another climax with his celebrated speech in the debate in the House of Commons in May 1940 which helped to bring down the Chamberlain government On 17 July 1940 Keyes was appointed Director of Combined Operations and he set to work to build up an organization Immediately this organization was at odds with both the Royal Navy and the Army as they were competing for the same supplies equipment and manpower He was treated with considerable suspicion personally by the 3 Chiefs of Staff who knew all too well his close connection to Churchill and most of his proposals were ruled out by various planning committees In March 1941 the Commandos carried out a raid on the Lofoten Islands and for much of the summer Keyes was involved in planning a raid on the Grand Canary Island or the Azores Operation Pilgrim This culminated in August in Exercise Leapfrog designed as the dress rehearsal for the operation The mistakes committed during this exercise led directly to Keyes dismissal as DCO and was eventually relieved of his post by Churchill For the second time in the war Keyes was out of a job when he thought he ought to have been running the war He continued to write to all his naval friends and spoke out against the conduct of the war in Parliament Despite his criticisms of the direction of the war Churchill offered Keyes a peerage which he accepted He died on 26th December 1945
