The Last Capitalist:

Contemporary Economists in the West Isaak Ilyich Rubin, 2024-08-26 Isaak I Rubin author of numerous works in Marxist theory explains the failure of the Austrian School's attempt to reduce political economy to individual psychology. Emphasising the sociological dimension of Marx's work, Rubin welcomes a new social direction in the writings of Rudolf Stolzmann, Alfred Amonn and Franz Petry. These economists rejected Austrian individualism but their works were often influenced by the ethical idealism of Kant and Hegel, resulting in detachment of the economy's social form from the material process of production. Rubin critically explores methodological differences between Marx and early twentieth-century critics and proponents of marginalist economic theory.

Against the Crisis Ståle Holgersen, 2024-11-26 If crisis defines our era, we need a coherent socialist policy in response. Ståle Holgersen delves into today's economic and ecological crises to demonstrate that they are not exceptions to an otherwise functioning system but integral to its operation. It is naive to see these upheavals as opportunities for reform or revolution. They are the bedrock of the status quo. Fortunately, the vicious circle sustaining capitalism is not founded on an iron law. Our historical mission in the face of the climate crisis is to create a historical exception to the rule. It is time for ecosocialism against crisis.

Dictatorship Dimitrios Kivotidis, 2021-02-23 This book analyses the institution and concept of dictatorship from a legal, historical, and theoretical perspective, examining the different types of dictatorship, their relationship to the law, as well as the analytical value of the concept in the contemporary world. In particular, it seeks to codify the main theories and conceptions of dictatorship with the goal of unearthing their contradictions. The book's main premise is that the concept of dictatorship and the different types of the dictatorial form have to be assessed and can only be understood in their historical context. On this basis, the elaborations on dictatorship of such diverse thinkers as Carl Schmitt, Donoso Cortés, Karl Marx, Ernst Fraenkel, Franz Neumann, Nicos Poulantzas, and V. I. Lenin are discussed in their historical context: classical and Caesaristic dictatorship in ancient Rome; dictatorship in revolutionary France of 1789 and counterrevolutionary France of 1848; fascist dictatorship in Nazi Germany; and dictatorship of the proletariat in Russia of 1917. The book contributes to the theory of dictatorship as it outlines the contradictions of the different typologies of the dictatorial form and seeks to explain them on the basis of the concept of class dictatorship. The book's original claim is that the dictatorial form as a modality of class rule that relies predominantly on violence and repression has been essential to the reproduction of bourgeois rule and consequently of capitalist social relations. This function has given rise to different types and conceptualisations of dictatorship depending on the level of capitalist development. This book is addressed to anyone with an interest in law, political theory, political history, and sociology. It can serve as core text for courses that seek to introduce students to the institution or theory of dictatorship. It may also serve as a reference text for postgraduate programs in law and politics because of its interdisciplinary and critical approach.
