Whos Bashing Whom:

Who's Bashing Whom? Laura D'Andrea Tyson, 1993 Governments around the world This volume answers these questions on the basis of detailed and rigorous case studies of trade disputes between the United States Japan and Europe in aircraft semiconductors supercomputers telecommunications and other electronics products Tyson proposes a cautious activist policy agenda to promote US competitiveness in high technology sectors and to strengthen multilateral rules governing high technology trade

Book Review of Tyson, Laura D'Andrea, Who's Bashing Whom? Trade Conflict in High-technology Industries. Institute for International Economics. Washington, D.C., 1992. American Industrial Policy William R. Nester, 2016-07-27 What is the government's proper role in the economy Do free or managed markets best promote economic development Who can best pick industrial winners and losers the government or private sector This book attempts to answer those and related questions by exploring the evolution and results of federal policies towards half a dozen economic sectors Those policies are largely determined by the representatives of the targeted industry bureaucrats from agencies and departments that administer that industry and politicians with firms from that industry in their districts These iron triangles capture a virtuous political economic cycle in which they use their united power to grant themselves favourable policies which in turn enhances their power As will be seen the results of such a politicized industrial policy process varies considerably from one industry to the next

Europe and the Japanese Challenge Mark Mason, 1997 A study of the history of Japanese involvement and investment in Europe from the early part of this century to the present day The main focus of the analysis centres on the auto industry consumer electronics and banking whilst the different reactions to Japanese investment in Europe and the United States is also considered

National Politics in a Global Economy Philip A. Mundo, 1999-10-20 In our increasingly globalized world U S trade policy stands at the intersection of foreign and domestic affairs This book explains trade policy in terms of domestic politics presenting a concise account of its origins and political significance Although trade policy is a component of foreign policy Philip A Mundo explains how it is rooted in the domestic policy process and carries with it enormous implications for domestic affairs He reviews the growing importance of trade policy since World War II particularly over the past twenty years and shows how recent policies like NAFTA are shaped by the domestic agenda Mundo explains trade policy as the product of a three stage process comprising agenda setting program adoption and implementation He reviews this process in terms of the ideas that inform trade policy the interests that seek to influence it and the institutions that shape it He also addresses the importance of specific measures such as administrative relief and trade sanctions This book distills the essence of the trade policy process into a concise innovative framework accessible to students and general readers With the growing importance of trade policy it makes explicit many of the subtleties surrounding policymaking while fully explicating the legal and international context in which trade operates

Conflict and Cooperation in National Competition for High-Technology Industry Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy, Hamburg Institute for Economic Research, Kiel Institute for World Economics, National Research Council, 1996-10-29 This unique volume contains a powerful set of recommendations on issues at the center of international discussions on investment trade and technology policy They take into account the globalization of industrial activity and the special characteristics of high technology industries while recognizing the continued policy role of national governments The book identifies the rationale for promotional measures for high technology industries delineates sources of friction among the leading industrial countries and proposes policies to enhance international cooperation and strengthen the multilateral trading regime This volume also examines the factors driving collaboration among otherwise competing firms and national programs highlights the need to develop principles of equitable public and private international cooperation and emphasizes the linkage between investment government procurement and other trade policies and prospects for enhanced international cooperation

Strategic Trade in Commercial-class Aircraft Philip K. Lawrence, Paul Dowdall, 1998 This paper explores the facts behind the transatlantic squabbles about taxpayer support for European aero industries It examines the substantial US support for its civilian aerospace programmes and the strategic drive behind it

Economics and National Strategy in the Information Age James R. Golden, 1994-07-30 The Information Age has dawned at the same time the global political system is in transition High technology performance and economic productivity are converging across the major developed regions of North America East Asia and Europe If U S economic military and political leadership is to continue it must depend more on flexible adaptation to the new technical and organizational realities and less on technological dominance The heart of this adaptation lies in the evolution of a national technology policy that emphasizes market forces and the exploitation of network linkages within and among commercial and military organizations
