Solidarity Of Strangers:

Solidarity of Strangers Jodi Dean, Professor Jodi Dean, 1996-01-01 Anyone concerned by the swirling academic and political debates over identity politics multiculturalism and what could bring us together in divisive times should read Jodi Dean's welcome argument for reconstructing a conscious deliberative solidarity With insightful engagement with scholars as diverse as Judith Butler Cornel West Jurgen Habermas and Lynet Uttal Dean models the kind of dialogue she advocates Martha Minow author of Making All the Difference Inclusion Exclusion and American Law Solidarity of Strangers is an impressive achievement Dean works to move political theory beyond the poststructuralist Habermasian divide as she offers a discourse ethics that accounts for difference and a universalism that does not abandon specificities Shane Phelan author of Getting Specific Postmodern Lesbian Politics Dean offers a strong original and humane defense of universalist ideals against doubts which she deeply grasps and sympathetically arrays of the compatibility of such ideals with a respect for difference Frank Michelman Harvard Law School Dean has a real gift for weaving personal narrative current events law and high theory Her complicated and important argument attempts to move beyond the either/or of identity politics and its critics via a creative reevaluation of universalism premised on difference and plurality A very important book Judith Grant University of Southern California author of Fundamental Feminism Contesting the Core Concepts of Feminist Theory Calling for inspiration on Habermas George Herbert Mead and their critics Dean challenges conventional interpretive constraints on law and theory aiming to open up contestable spaces to democratic practices She offers the ideal of reflective solidarity as a vehicle for reclaiming a qualified notion of universality for feminism This controversial move will no doubt provoke debate requiring readers to think through the link between our epistemological convictions and our political commitments Kathy Ferguson author of The Man Question Visions of Subjectivity in Feminist Theory Citizens Without Frontiers Engin F. Isin, 2012-11-02 States define who their citizens are and exert control over their life and movements But how does such power persist in a global world where people ideas and products constantly cross the borders of what the states see as their sovereign territory This groundbreaking work sets to examine and interpret such challenges to offer a new way of thinking about citizenship Abandoning the sovereignty principle it develops a new image of citizenship using the connectedness principle To do so it interprets acts of citizenship by following activist citizens across the world through case studies from Wikileaks and the Gaza flotilla to China's virtual world and Darfur Written by a leader in the field this accessible and original work imagines citizens without frontiers as a politics without community and belonging inclusion without exclusion where the frontier becomes a form of otherness that citizens erase or create This unique work brings forth a new and creative way to approach citizenship beyond boundaries that will appeal to anyone studying citizenship social movements and migration

A World of Strangers Lyn H. Lofland, 1985 In traditional human societies the stranger was a threat to be disarmed at once by an act of force or by a ritual of hospitality Under no conditions could a stranger be ignored or taken for granted Yet in all great cities today human beings seem to live out their entire lives in a world of strangers How did it become possible for millions of people to do this How is city life possible The unique value of A World of Strangers lies in Lofland's expert use of rich historical and anthropological sources to answer these questions She demonstrates that a potentially chaotic and meaningless world of strangers was transformed into a knowable and predictable world of strangers by the same mechanism humans always use to make their world livable it was ordered Lofland offers a brilliant analysis of the various devices used at different times in history to create social and psychological order in cities concluding with an analysis of the contemporary city in which the location of the encounter between strangers has come to replace personal appearance as a means of evaluating others Lofland also describes how city people initially learn and then act upon the ordering principles dominant in their society A World of Strangers is a wonderfully wise and readable account of how we have come to live as we do

SUMRALL, 2025-11-25 Solidarity in a Society of Strangers Gernot Saalmann, 2002 Zusammenfassung In spite of any ideology of smallscale communities solidarity seems possible even in our modern society To show this a distinction is made between four kinds of solidarity The argument for the possibility of reflexive solidarity between autonomous individuals is based on an examination of our orientation in social space the processes in that strangers are constructed and the deeply human longing for recognition and selfesteem All these phenomena occur on three different levels that concern cognition emotion and interaction norms There is a close connection between the chances for one's recognition by others and her/his attitude towards them The less one treats them as strangers the more likely are real interaction and communication that form the basis of recognition as well as of the idea and the feeling of solidarity Social solidarity flows from human selfinterest and does not result from any moral prescription

Kristeva and the Political Cecilia Sjöholm, 2005 Julia Kristeva is one of the most influential French thinkers of the twentieth century and is best known for her work in linguistics Even though her work has been very influential the political implications of her writings have so far been neglected Kristeva and the Political is the first book to explore the relation of Kristeva's work to the political and casts new light on her work connecting her to recent developments in literary theory political theory and cultural studies In particular it shows how Kristeva's account of the unconscious and psychoanalysis generally widens the notion of the political Each chapter introduces a fundamental theme in Kristeva's work highlighting a specific period of development in her thought and drawing on texts from the 1960s through to the 1990s Themes addressed include Kristeva's theory of discourse the theory of the subject the notion of alterity feminism and marginality and her theory known as the politics of meaning Kristeva and the Political also shows how Kristeva's notions of the political draw on a rich array of thinkers and writers from Freud Melanie Klein and Lacan to Proust and Marguerite Duras

Pan-Slavism and Slavophilia in Contemporary Central and Eastern Europe Mikhail Suslov, Marek Čejka, Vladimir Đorđević, 2023-02-13 This book explores origins manifestations and functions of Pan Slavism in contemporary Central and Eastern Europe arguing that despite the extinction of Pan Slavism as an articulated Romantic era geopolitical ideology a number of related discourses metaphors and emotions have spilled over into the mainstream debates and popular imagination Using the term Slavophilia to capture the range of representations the volume analyses how geopolitical discourses shape the identity and policies of a community providing a comparative analysis that covers a range of Slavic countries in order to understand how Pan Slavism works and resonates across geographic and political contexts

Cosmopolitanism and Europe Chris Rumford, 2007 Europe's ongoing transformation has prompted the emergence of cosmopolitanism as a particularly relevant lens through which to analyze European politics and society As the European Union grows in size its member states are increasingly occupied with responsibilities that extend beyond their narrow national interests This timely book with contributions from Ulrich Beck Daniele Archibugi and Gerard Delanty persuasively argues that cosmopolitan perspectives are vital to the study of contemporary Europe

Texas Linguistic Forum, 1997

The New Imperialists Colin Peter Mooers, 2006 What right does any country have over another's policies and internal affairs and are they right to use military power to change them Interest in the geopolitics of the new imperialism has surged in recent years This broad and wide ranging collection of articles critically examines the main intellectual justifications for it and poses a number of challenging questions is preemptive regime change permissible even right in the name of military humanism and should military power be used to further their reported goals of human and women's rights and democracy globally. In the aftermath of the events of September 11 2001 and the subsequent invasions of Afghanistan and Iraq there seems to be a shift away from multilateralism the inviolability of state sovereignty and the rule of international law. In the New Imperialists it is argued that the rhetoric of human rights women's rights democracy and good governance espoused by the defenders of this new doctrine is a rationalization for a new imperialism which will undermine the very political and moral values it purports to advance.

Being Human Jo Frost, Peter Lynas, 2023-10-12 Being Human masterfully reorientates us towards the only story that ultimately makes sense of who we are. A remarkably timely book. Justin Brierley Practical prayerful and ambitious. A Gospel infused wide angle lens on contemporary society. Jill Duff Anglican Bishop of Lancaster A valuable toolkit for church leaders to help them build confidence in their members to share the story of Jesus and his kingdom. Les Isaac OBE President Ascension Trust A great book about one of the most important but confusing questions of our time. Professor Iain Provan author of Cuckoos in our Nest Truth and Lies about Being Human Who am I Does my life matter What will make me happy In different ways and at different moments we all ask life's big questions about what it means to be human. But in our fast paced rapidly changing and often exhausting society our cultural stories struggle to provide us with good answers. Whether on issues of gender identity or AI climate change or racial injustice our individual solutions to life's big challenges can often end in deep division and broken relationships. But there is another way. Being Human offers a new lens a new way to engage with our cultural conversations using four key aspects of humanity significance connection presence and participation. Digging into the foundations of our cultural stories authors Jo Frost and Peter Lynas expose the cracks in our culture's understanding of what it means to be human. By contrasting our cultural narratives with the story of the Bible we can see how cultural truths have been fractured and isolated from the fullness and richness of who God is and who God created us to be and come to recognise that only in Jesus can we live truly fully human lives. Being Human is a refreshingly clear and engaging guide for everyone who wants to live out and share the good true and beautiful biblical vision of what it is to be human. Peter and Jo co lead the Being Human project an initiative from the Evangelical Alliance helping everyday Christians live out and share the biblical vision of what it means to be human.
