

Understanding Market Structure

- A Anticipate Analysis
- B Participate (Buy)
- C Exit Long (Sell)
- D Avoid

Accumulation
 Shows when a price is under pressure of buying orders, usually from active order books in trading.

Markup
 Initial phase of a move, like a cartoon of higher highs and higher lows. This is when you want to get long in markets, not when you're looking for a "smooth and steady gain".

Distribution
 Shows when a prolonged price advance, possibly of order activity, comes to a close, and it's time to reduce.

Decline
 Second phase of a price fall, this is when you want to be short, look to add short/long positions after short term rallies have exhausted themselves. This structure is "dirty and noisy market".

- A Anticipate/Analysis
- B Participate (Sell Short)
- C Exit Short (Buy to Cover)
- D Avoid

EARLY ACCUMULATION
 1-1 Beginning of movement from neutral state to more active. Larger than moving averages are still working and the stock will rise above and below their moving average. Most of these orders are "order book and order" orders that are intended for short-term trading.

MID ACCUMULATION
 1-2 Shows strong buying order books at lower intraday accumulation points, but still in range of market movement bands.

LATE ACCUMULATION
 1-3 Near end of this structure, the stock is under pressure. A major accumulation point is usually a higher high during overnight hours followed by a price move gap up.

EARLY MARKUP
 2-1 Stock has established a pattern of higher highs and higher lows that may begin with moving average. These orders are accumulation points, momentum and should be considered points of interest for investors for the late buying opportunities.

MID MARKUP
 2-2 Indicates when the early stage has changed and becomes more of a "smooth and steady" or "smooth and steady" gain in price.

LATE MARKUP
 2-3 The upward momentum is still present but selling may take place in trading and order books are not very active, after all the "smooth and steady" gain which also has momentum, the spread is open.

EARLY DISTRIBUTION
 3-1 Shows how moving average stops to show the decline, which indicates a transition without being in a bear market yet. "Control" type of this period will be considered as selling long positions.

MID DISTRIBUTION
 3-2 Shows when the moving average starts to show a "smooth and steady" decline in the market, but moving the stock to the "smooth and steady" state of the market.

LATE DISTRIBUTION
 3-3 Some of the orders and moving average may be working and there is a transition from the "smooth and steady" state to a "smooth and steady" state. These orders are usually relatively inactive.

EARLY DECLINE
 4-1 The stock has established a pattern of lower highs and lower lows, the trading range and moving averages. These orders are beginning to show signs of low and low order activity. These orders should be watched for short-term opportunities.

MID DECLINE
 4-2 Orders to begin from moving average usually fall in the accumulation and high to a rally and the reality of a continuing price move to enter it. These orders are usually trading opportunities.

LATE DECLINE
 4-3 The downward momentum is still present and trading can occur rapidly, but a bearish market that causes order activity's after "fall" state is required.
