Teaching Children To Write:

Teaching Children to Write Daniel R. Meier, 2011-07-10 In his latest book Daniel Meier highlights the critical importance of integrating content and mechanics for successful and engaged writing at the K-4 level. Featuring the teaching philosophies and strategies of seven exemplary teachers and a discussion of relevant research and theory, Meier provides a fresh, practical, and much-needed perspective on making writing meaningful and effective in the current standards-based era. Written by an experienced teacher and researcher, this book will be of interest to both new and veteran teachers, as well as curriculum coordinators, literacy coaches, and researchers on writing.

Teaching Children to Write Jane B. Hughey, Charlotte Slack, 2001 Teaching Children to Write: Theory into Practice blends differing theories into an approach that provides preservice teachers with the solid content and preparation they need to enter the workshop or writing classroom with confidence in their abilities to teach children to write. At the same time, it shows them how to provide children with the freedom they need for creative authorship.

Teaching Children to Write Pam Hodson, Deborah Jones, 2013-10-18 A recent OFSTED report identified the fact that while many teachers were confident about their teaching of reading, too many are neglecting the teaching of writing in the Literacy Hour. This book, building on the process approach adopted by both the National Literacy Strategy and the National Curriculum 2000, addresses the fundamental question: How do you teach writing? Pam Hodson and Deborah Jones provide teachers with practical strategies and support through a clear and concise rationale and explicit explanation of the different stages of the writing process. This theoretical perspective is the basis of differentiated writing frames provided for the classroom use of teachers and pupils alike. Thus, invaluable support is given to teachers and student teachers of writing across a wide range of genres throughout Reception, Key Stages 1 and 2, and in the early secondary years.

The Learning-to-write Process in Elementary Classrooms Suzanne Bratcher, 2012-07-26 This text models for teachers how to help children learn and write by establishing comfort with writing, building confidence, and developing competence. Several themes run through the learning-to-write process presented in this text: Writing is communication; Writing is a powerful tool for learning; How children feel about their writing and themselves as writers affects how they learn to write; Teachers are coworkers with students; Children from many backgrounds can learn to write together. The text synthesizes what we know about how children learn how we write and what we write into a process of teaching children to write. It is intended to serve as a starting place for developing theories of how to best teach writing.
