Microbial Ecology of Arid Terrestrial Systems Thulani P. Makhalanyane,Don Cowan,Jean-Baptiste Ramond,2016-09-14 Water is usually referred to as the Molecule of Life It constitutes the most abundant molecule in living micro organisms and is also essential for critical biochemical reactions both for the global functioning and maintenance of Ecosystems e g Photosynthesis and individual microbial cells e g ATP hydrolysis However most of Earth s terrestrial environments present deficiencies in bioavailable water Arid environments cover around a third of the land s surface are found on the six continents and with the anthropogenic desertification phenomenon will increase Commonly defined by having a ratio of precipitation to potential evapotranspiration P/PET below 1 arid environments being either hot or cold are characterized by scant and erratic plant growth and low densities in macro fauna Consequently these ecosystems are microbially mediated with microbial communities particularly driving the essential N and C biogeochemical cycles Due to the relatively simple trophic structure of these biomes arid terrestrial environments have subsequently been used as ideal ecosystems to capture and model interactions in edaphic microbial communities To date we have been able to demonstrate that edaphic microorganisms i e

Fungi Bacteria Archaea and Viruses in arid environments are abundant highly diverse different from those of other terrestrial systems both in terms of diversity and function and are important for the stability and productivity of these ecosystems Moreover arid terrestrial systems are generally considered Mars like environments Thus they have been the favored destination for astro micro biologists aiming to better understand life s potential distribution and adaptation strategies in the Universe and develop terraforming approaches Altogether these points demonstrate the importance of significantly improving our knowledge in the microbial community composition particularly for Fungi Archaea and Viruses assembly processes and functional potentials of arid terrestrial systems as well as their adaptation mechanisms to aridity and generally to various other environmental stresses This Research Topic was proposed to provide further insights on the microbial ecology of hot and cold arid edaphic systems We provide a detailed review and nine research articles spanning hot and cold deserts edaphic rhizospheric BSC and endolithic environments as well as culture dependent and independant approaches

The Early Universe Edward Kolb,Michael Turner,2018-03-08 The Early Universe has become the standard reference on forefront topics in cosmology particularly to the early history of the Universe Subjects covered include primordial nucleosynthesis baryogenesis phases transitions inflation dark matter and galaxy formation relics such as axions neutrinos and monopoles and speculations about the Universe at the Planck time The book includes more than ninety figures as well as a five page update discussing recent developments such as the COBE results

Ecology, behaviour and conservation of the charrs, genus Salvelinus Pierre Magnan,Céline Audet,Hélène Glémet,Michel Legault,Marco A. Rodríguez,Eric B. Taylor,2002-07-31 Salvelinus species are one of the most thoroughly studied groups of fishes Many reasons explain this intense interest in charr biology Charrs have a Holarctic distribution encompassing many Asian North American and European countries and occupy diverse marine and freshwater environments Furthermore the current distribution of charr includes areas that were directly influenced by climate and topographic change associated with the many Pleistocene glaciations Undoubtedly these conditions have promoted much of the tremendous morphological ecological and genetic variability and plasticity within Salvelinus species and they make charr very good models to study evolutionary processes in action Many charr species also exhibit demographic characteristics such as slow growth late maturity and life in extreme environments that may increase their susceptibility to extinction from habitat changes and overexploitation especially in depauperate aquatic habitats This vulnerability makes understanding their biology of great relevance to biodiversity and conservation Finally charr are of great cultural commercial and recreational significance to many communities and their intimate linkage with human societies has stimulated much interest in this enigmatic genus This volume comprises a selection of papers presented at the fourth International Charr Symposium held in Trois Rivières Québec Canada from 26 June to 1 July 2000 It includes 31 papers on ecological interactions and behaviour trophic polymorphism movement and migration ecophysiology and evolutionary genetics ecological parasitology environmental stress and conservation These studies cannot cover all recent developments in the ecology behaviour and conservation of Salvelinus species but collecting them into a special volume should bring attention to current research on this important genus and stimulate further work on Salvelinus species
