Women In Islamic Societies:

Women in Islamic Societies Bo Utas, 2016-09-19 First published in 1983 this edited collection is based on contributions at a Scandinavian symposium on the place of women in Islamic society It offers perspectives which illuminate our understanding of social relationships and structures pertaining to a vast number of the world's population dispersed throughout Asia and Africa Sociological and anthropological investigations of social organization and the behavioural patterns provided in these papers demonstrate that the status of women their rights duties and control over property their body the degree of seclusion and veiling vary considerably Overall this collection of papers show that the relationship between Islam and the everyday lives of Muslim women is a complex picture one that is confronted with a considerable range of interpretations of laws and traditions This book will be of particular interest to those studying women and Islam anthropology religion and sociology

Women and Islam: Images and realities Haideh Moghissi, 2005 This three volume interdisciplinary collection is of use not only in Middle East studies but also in various other disciplines including women's studies political science religion cultural studies sociology of gender and anthropology The collection offers the most influential writings in the field by both renowned scholars as well as those by the new generation of scholars of Islam and gender and includes a wide variety of cases from Middle Eastern and Islamic societies By including case based articles the collection highlights the clear links between concepts and theories and actual practices Titles also available in this series include Shamanism March 2004 3 volumes 395 and the forthcoming titles Childhood 2005 4 volumes c 495 Gender 2005 4 volumes c 495 and Knowledge 2005 4 volumes c 495

Status of Women in Islamic Society Mā'il Khairābādī, 1982

Beyond the Exotic Amira El-Azhary Sonbol, 2005-06-14 Most research has accepted stereotypical images of Muslim women treating their outward manifestations such as veiling as passive and oppressive Muslim women have been depicted as different and by exoticizing orientaling them or Islamic society in general they have been dealt with outside of general women's history and regarded as having little to contribute to the writing of world history or to the life of their sisters worldwide By approaching widely used sources with different questions and methodologies and by using new or little used material with much primary research this book redresses these deficiencies Scholars revisit and reevaluate scripture and scriptural interpretation church records involving non Muslim women of the Arab world archival court records dating from the present back to the Ottoman period and the oral and material culture and its written record including oral history textbooks sufi practices and the politics of dress By deconstructing the past these scholars offer fresh perspectives on women's roles and aspirations in Middle East societies

Routledge Library Editions: Women in Islamic Societies Various Authors, 2021-02-25 Women in Islamic societies are often seen as a hidden and homogenous group The volumes in this set originally published between 1960 and 1983 explore the wide variety of women's roles in a range of Islamic societies from Yemen the United Arab Emirates and Kurdistan to Malaysia West Africa Iran and Turkey Due to their anthropological focus

each book pays particular attention to the everyday lives of women in these regions including their agency and power within their own communities The titles also explore women s changing roles in the modernising Muslim world of the 20th century This set will be of interest to those studying women gender Islam and anthropology

Women in Islamic Societies Ruth Ulrich,2015 Half a billion Muslim women inhabit some 45 Muslim majority countries and another 30 or more countries have significant Muslim minorities including increasingly countries in the developed West This book provides a literature review of recent empirical social science scholarship that addresses the actualities of women s lives in Muslim societies across multiple geographic regions This book also discusses the differences in the Sunnis and Shiites in Islam

Women, Patronage, and Self-Representation in Islamic Societies D. Fairchild Ruggles,2000-08-03 The first to combine the study of representation gender theory and Muslim women from a historical and geographical perspective this book examines where women have represented themselves in art architecture and the written word in the Muslim world The authors explore the gendering and implicit power relations present in the positioning of subject and object in the visual field and look specifically at occasions when women publically adopted the stance of the viewer speaker writer or patron

Muslim Women (RLE Women and Religion) Freda Hussain,2020-07-26 The history of Islam and the changing role performance of Muslim women given the various interpretations of the belief system of Islam are described It is the contention of the authors that it is these various interpretations which have given rise to the conflict between the ideal and contextual realities This book also includes papers which investigate the problems of feminism and employment for Muslim women as well as the educational and legal aspects of their lives in contemporary Islamic society First published in 1984

A History of Islamic Societies Ira M. Lapidus,2002-08-22 Ira Lapidus classic history of the origins and evolution of Muslim societies revised and updated for this second edition first published in 2002

Women and Peace in the Islamic World Yasmin Saikia,Chad Haines,2015-01-20 How realistic is the prospect of peace in the Muslim world This question is the predominant focus for global analysis today but its debate frequently ignores the cultural and social complexity of the Muslim world reducing it into a system of states and select actors This book addresses such a failing by exploring how the everyday interactions of women in accordance with Islamic personal ethics can offer the world a new interpretation of peace In particular it focuses on the women in Islamic societies from Aceh to Bosnia Morocco to Bangladesh initiating a dialogue on the role of these women in peacemaking This concentration upon the complex issues of the everyday both enables a detailed exploration of how people conceptualise peace and opens up new frameworks for conflict resolution The discussions that emerge lead to a critical questioning of assumptions about peace as a state policy and cessation of violence Drawing upon original research from different parts of the Middle East North Africa and Asia including Iran India Afghanistan Bangladesh Bosnia Egypt and Sudan the contributors offer a refreshing new look at Muslim women as peacemakers challenging any assumptions of Islam as an inherently violent religion Such a timely work provides new and important analyses on the role of Muslim women in forging new pathways of peace in the contemporary world Women and Gender in Islam Leila Ahmed,2021 A classic pioneering account of the lives of women in Islamic history republished for a new generation This pioneering study of the social and political lives of Muslim women has shaped a whole generation of scholarship In it Leila Ahmed explores the historical roots of contemporary debates ambitiously surveying Islamic discourse on women from Arabia during the period in which Islam was founded to Iraq during the classical age to Egypt during the modern era The book is now reissued as a Veritas paperback with a new foreword by Kecia Ali situating the text in its scholarly context and explaining its enduring influence Ahmed s book is a serious and independent minded analysis of its subject the best informed most sympathetic and reliable one that exists today Edward W Said Destined to become a classic It gives Muslim women back our rightful place at the center of our histories Rana Kabbani The Guardian Women and Islam: Women's movements in Muslim societies Haideh Moghissi,2005 This three volume interdisciplinary collection is of use not only in Middle East studies but also in various other disciplines including women s studies political science religion cultural studies sociology of gender and anthropology The collection offers the most influential writings in the field by both renowned scholars as well as those by the new generation of scholars of Islam and gender and includes a wide variety of cases from Middle Eastern and Islamic societies By including case based articles the collection highlights the clear links between concepts and theories and actual practices Titles also available in this series include Shamanism March 2004 3 volumes 395 and the forthcoming titles Childhood 2005 4 volumes c 495 Gender 2005 4 volumes c 495 and Knowledge 2005 4 volumes c 495 Health and Well-Being in Islamic Societies Harold G. Koenig,Saad Al Shohaib,2014-05-17 From the first hospitals to pioneering pharmacy techniques the early history of medicine reflects the groundbreaking contributions of Islamic physicians and scientists Less recognized however is the impact of Islam on the health and daily health practices of modern day Muslims Meticulously documented with current research sources and relevant religious texts Health and Well Being in Islamic Societies sheds light on the relationships between Muslim beliefs and physical psychological and social health Background chapters trace Muslim thought on health and healing as it has evolved over the centuries to the present The authors provide even handed comparisons with Christianity as the two traditions approach medical and ethical questions and with Christian populations in terms of health outcomes assuring coverage that is not only objective but also empirically sound and clinically useful And as the concluding chapters show understanding of these similarities and differences can lead to better care for clients cost effective services for communities and healthier Muslim populations in general Included among the book s topics Muslim beliefs about health healing and healthcare Similarities and differences between Muslim and Christian health beliefs Impact of religion on physical mental and community health in Muslims Understanding how Islam influences health Applications for clinical practice Implications for public health Cultural awareness is critical to improving both individual client health and public health on a global scale Health and Well Being in Islamic Societies is essential reading for clinical and health psychologists psychiatrists social workers and nurses and will be informative for the general reader as well

Gender and Violence in Islamic Societies Zahia Smail Salhi, 2013-05-22 As a result of the uprisings that spread across the Middle East and North Africa in late 2010 and 2011 the issue of state public violence against both men and women dominated the headlines But gender based violence in both its public and private forms has for the most part remained unnoticed and is often ignored The forms that this kind of violence can take are influenced by cultural norms and religious beliefs as well as economic and political circumstances In Gender and Violence in Islamic Societies violence is perceived not only as physical harm but includes various forms of violence directed at women because they are women These include segregation in the workplace and limiting women's access to wealth gender stereotyping in the media and education verbal aggression and humiliation control of women's finances and income forced veiling restricted access to education and health Gender based violence is thus analysed in its various forms and localities encompassing both the public and private spheres within the family the general community at work and in various state institutions Here Zahia Smail Salhi brings together a wide range of examples of gender based violence across the Middle East and North Africa from discrimination in the workplace in Jordan to the physical abuse of underage domestic workers in Morocco and from psychological and verbal violence against women in Tunisia and Algeria to the practice of female genital mutilation in Egypt The evidence demonstrates that the violence far from being of universal character across the region is instead diverse in both its intensity and in the processes of addressing such violence

Women in Islamic Societies Federal Research Division Library of Congress, 2014-11-25 Half a billion Muslim women inhabit some 45 Muslim majority countries and another 30 or more countries have significant Muslim minorities including increasingly countries in the developed West This study provides a literature review of recent empirical social science scholarship that addresses the actualities of women's lives in Muslim societies across multiple geographic regions The study seeks simultaneously to orient the reader in the available social scientific literature on the major dimensions of women's lives and to present analyses of empirical findings that emerge from these bodies of literature Because the scholarly literature on Muslim women has grown voluminous in the past two decades this study is necessarily selective in its coverage It highlights major works and representative studies in each of several subject areas and alerts the reader to additional significant research in lengthy footnotes In order to handle a literature that has grown voluminous in the past two decades the study includes an Introduction and a section on The Scholarship on Women in Islamic Societies that offer general observations bird's eye views of the literature as a whole The Introduction describes the two main sources of the social scientific studies on women in Muslim communities namely 1 academic programs on women worldwide that emerged under the impetus of post 1970s women's movements and 2 international and national economic development agencies that came to see women's disadvantaged status as a hindrance to development It also describes the broad thrust of the social scientific literature on various spheres or dimensions of Muslim women's lives: ideology, law, family, economy, and politics. The Scholarship on Women in Islamic Societies section describes features that pervade the entire literature. One feature is that the studies tend to align themselves on a spectrum between two interpretive poles: one relatively negative, the other positive, about the situation of women in Islamic societies. The second feature is that the literature is highly uneven in its coverage, with a disproportionate representation in particular of the Middle East and North Africa region. It also discusses the sources of the primary data upon which researchers draw in studies across a variety of fields and describes two types of work that make up the literature on women in Muslim societies: specialized microstudies and projects of consolidation. The final section, Dimensions of Women's Status and Bodies of Research, characterizes the bodies of literature that have developed to illuminate particular dimensions of women's lives. This portion covers, in separate sections, the substantial bodies of social scientific work that have developed on each of the following major dimensions of women's experience and condition: religious ideology, law, demography, family, economics, and politics.

Women in Islam
Terence Lovat, 2012-06-12. The role of women in Islamic societies, not to mention in the religion itself, is a defining issue. It is also one that remains resistant to universal dogma, with a wide range of responses to women's social roles across the Islamic world. Reflecting this heterogeneity, the editor of this volume has assembled the latest research on the issue, which combines contemporary with historical data. The material comes from around the world, as well as from Muslim and non-Muslim researchers. It takes in work from majority Muslim nations such as Bangladesh, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Pakistan, Palestine, Tunisia, and Turkey, as well as countries with troubled interfaith relations such as India and Israel. Nations with minority Muslim populations such as France, the UK, Canada, and Australia are also represented. The work also features varying Islamic subgroups such as the two main ones, Sunni and Shi'a, as well as less well-known populations such as the Ismaili Muslims. In each case, the work is underpinned by the very latest socio-theological insights and empirical data.

Muslim Women in America
Yvonne Yazbeck Haddad, Jane I. Smith, Kathleen M. Moore, 2006-03-02. The treatment and role of women are among the most discussed and controversial aspects of Islam. The rights of Muslim women have become part of the Western political agenda, often perpetuating a stereotype of universal oppression. Muslim women living in America continue to be marginalized and misunderstood since the 9/11 terrorist attacks. Yet their contributions are changing the face of Islam, as it is seen both within Muslim communities in the West and by non-Muslims. In their public and private lives, Muslim women are actively negotiating what it means to be a woman and a Muslim in an American context. Yvonne Yazbeck Haddad, Jane I. Smith, and Kathleen M. Moore offer a much-needed survey of the situation of Muslim American women, focusing on how Muslim views about and experiences of gender are changing in the Western diaspora. Centering on Muslims in America, the book investigates Muslim attempts to form a new American Islam. Such specific issues as dress, marriage, childrearing, conversion, and workplace discrimination are addressed. The authors also look at the ways in which American Muslim women have tried to create new paradigms of Islamic womanhood and are reinterpreting the traditions apart from the males who control the mosque institutions A final chapter asks whether 9 11 will prove to have been a watershed moment for Muslim women in America This groundbreaking work presents the diversity of Muslim American women and demonstrates the complexity of the issues Impeccably researched and accessible it broadens our understanding of Islam in the West and encourages further exploration into how Muslim women are shaping the future of American Islam The Role of Women in Contemporary Islamic Societies Rebecca H. Kolowé,2004
