Statistical Games And Human Affairs The View From Within:

Statistical Games and Human Affairs Roger J. Bowden, 1989-03-31 This book puts the underlying methodology of socioeconomic statistics on a firmer footing by placing it within the ambit of inferential and predictive games It covers such problems as learning publication non response strategic response the nature and possibility of rational expectations time inconsistency intrinsic nonstationarity and the existence of probabilities

Measuring African Development Morten Jerven, 2016-04-14 The chief economist for the World Bank s Africa region Shanta Devarajan delivered a devastating assessment of the capacity of African states to measure development in his 2013 article Africa s Statistical Tragedy Is there a statistical tragedy unfolding in Africa now If so then examining the roots of the problem of provision of statistics in poor economies is certainly of great importance This book on measuring African development in the past and in the present draws on the historical experience of colonial French West Africa Ghana Sudan Mauritania and Tanzania and the more contemporary experiences of Ethiopia and the Democratic Republic of Congo The authors each reflect on the changing ways statistics represent African economies and how they are used to govern them This book was published as a special issue of the Canadian Journal of Development Studies

Probability, Econometrics and Truth Hugo A. Keuzenkamp, 2000-11-02 When John Maynard Keynes likened Jan Tinbergen s early work in econometrics to black magic and alchemy he was expressing a widely held view of a new discipline However even after half a century of practical work and theorizing by some of the most accomplished social scientists Keynes comments are still repeated today This book assesses the foundations and development of econometrics and sets out a basis for the reconstruction of the foundations of econometric inference by examining the various interpretations of probability theory which underlie econometrics Keuzenkamp claims that the probabilistic foundations of econometrics are weak and although econometric inferences may yield interesting knowledge claims to be able to falsify or verify economic theories are unwarranted Methodological falsificationism in econometrics is an illusion Instead it is argued econometrics should locate itself in the tradition of positivism

Data-Driven Decision Making in Fragile Contexts Alexander Hamilton, Craig Hammer, 2017-06-16 The need for evidence based decision making at all levels of government is perhaps greatest in fragile settings Data deficiencies contribute to state fragility and exacerbate constraints on the capacity to provide basic services public security and the rule of law The lack of robust good quality data can also have a disabling effect on government efforts to manage political conflict Indeed the lack of data can worsen conflict since violent settings pose substantial challenges to knowledge generation capture and application The development of sustainable and professional data literate stakeholders who are able to produce and increase the quality and accessibility of official statistics can help to improve development outcomes Good quality and reliable statistics are required to track the progress of development policies through the monitoring of performance indicators and targets and to ensure that public resources are achieving results Although reliable data alone cannot have a transformative effect without the right contextual incentives they constitute an essential prerequisite for greater accountability and more efficient decision making Data Driven Decision Making in Fragile Contexts Evidence from Sudan explores methods and insights for data collection and use in fragile contexts with a focus on findings from Sudan It begins by posing several questions on the political economy of data and then sets out a framework for assessing the validity reliability and potential impact of data on decision making in fragile settings It then provides insights regarding the challenges associated with data driven decision making in Sudan derived from the 2014 15 United Kingdom s Department for International Development Sudanese household survey Featured are data driven analyses of diverse topics from public service delivery to the interplay of governance trust and state legitimacy As the data revolution and the advent of the Sustainable Development Goals herald an increasing need to solicit the perceptions and experiences of program beneficiaries the impetus to develop and deploy good quality survey instruments will increase This volume provides an important proof of concept that this type of endeavor is both feasible and useful in fragile contexts and in combination with other important data collection tools can be effectively utilized to enrich the evidence base of decision making in these settings
