Curriculum, Pedagogy and Educational Research John Elliott, Nigel Norris, 2012-03-15 Lawrence Stenhouse was one of the most distinguished original and influential educationalists of his generation His theories about curriculum curriculum development pedagogy teacher research and research as a basis for teaching remain compelling and fresh and continue to be a counterpoint to instrumental and technocratic thinking in education In this book renowned educationalists describe Stenhouse's contribution to education explore the contemporary relevance of his thinking and bring his work and legacy to the attention of a wide range of students teachers teacher educators and others involved in education Stenhouse saw the primary aim of education as the development of individuality through a creative and critical engagement with culture He was an early advocate of inclusive education and was committed to making available to all pupils an education that was challenging and empowering For Stenhouse many of the problems of education stemmed not so much from its content as from the terms and conditions under which students were required to access it Consequently he pioneered an approach to curriculum reform that stressed the quality of the educational process and the values that defined it as opposed to rational curriculum planning which stressed the pre-specification of measurable learning outcomes Stenhouse devised the curriculum reform movement's most ambitious strategy the process model and was its principal theorist His idea of the teacher as researcher lay at the heart of this strategy as the means by which the values that define a worthwhile educational process could be progressively realized by teachers in concrete forms of action within their classrooms and schools What marked out Stenhouse's unique contribution to the field of curriculum was his distinctive conceptualisation of the relationship between the teacher authority the learner autonomy and the subject matter understanding Founded on his epistemological scepticism and forged in his encounters with expertly discerning teachers who valued and nurtured the intellectual independence of students Stenhouse acquired an acute appreciation of the ways in which teaching enhances or inhibits develops or displaces the potential for autonomous thinking of students He changed the relationship between curriculum theory educational research and teachers placing teachers right at the heart of the curriculum development process and the teacher as researcher at the heart of teacher professionalism

Getting a Fair Go Brian Milton Bullivant,1986 The Moral Foundations of Educational Research Patricia J. Sikes,Jon Nixon,Wilfred Carr,2003 This title considers what is distinctive about educational research in comparison with other research in the social sciences As the contributors all agree that education is always an essentially moral enterprise discussion about methodology starts not with the widely endorsed claim that educational research should be useful and relevant but with the attempt to justify and elaborate that claim with reference to its moral foundations Determining the nature of usefulness and relevance is not simply a matter of focussing on impact and influence but involves a radical re conceptualisation of the moral and educational significance of what is deemed to be useful and relevant There is no argument with this emphasis on the generation of useful and relevant knowledge but it is suggested that educational research requires a fuller and more rounded understanding that takes account of the moral values of those who conduct it Educational research is grounded epistemologically in the moral foundations of educational practice It is the epistemological and moral purposes underlying the usefulness and relevance of educational research that matter Research Supported by the SSRC.
