Teaching International Politics in High School Raymond English, 1989 Approaches to teaching about international politics and avenues to peace should be realistic and pragmatic rather than based on generalities about global education and peace education This volume contains essays on international economic relations cultural and linguistic understanding and the conflict of ideologies and value systems in international affairs The 13 essays included are America the World and Our Schools W J Bennett International Politics and Global Education M A East The Realities of Foreign Policy Making J P Roche The New Look in Social Studies R H Wilson Trading States or Territorial States J L Tucker Avoiding the isms R L Hayden A State Project in International Studies M Hartoonian Global Education An Ambiguous Innovation R English Peacekeeping in the Nuclear Age K B Payne J Coleman National Security in the Nuclear Age J E Harf Teaching about the United Nations J G Pilon A Critique of Peace Education T B Smith and The Historian Filmmaker P C Rollins R T Baird Appendices contain sample textbook pages as well as a glossary maps theories of international politics and an international timeline from 1945 to the present JB

Teaching International Relations in a Time of Disruption Heather A. Smith, David J. Hornsby, 2021 This volume asks how we as International Relations scholars support our students and indeed each other to create classroom spaces that foster the critical curiosity and engagement required to understand and live in a world that feels dangerously disrupted In an era of globalization disruption and pandemic International Relations educators need to reflect upon how teaching helps constitute the discipline and position our students to contribute to the advancement of International Relations as a discipline and practice Through exploring innovative approaches to teaching and learning this volume ensures that International Relations keeps up with the contemporary needs of students and student learning and takes advantage of the opportunity to advance as a discipline now and in the future As we move through pivots online and transitions to remote learning in the midst of a pandemic the need for attention to student learning is only made more prescient and urgent Heather A Smith is Professor of Global and International Studies at the University of Northern British Columbia She is the recipient of the 3M National Teaching Fellowship 2006 the Canadian Political Science Excellence in Teaching Award 2012 and a two time recipient of the UNBC Excellence in Teaching Award David J Hornsby is a Professor of International Affairs and the Associate Vice President Teaching and Learning at Carleton University Ottawa Published in both the biological and social sciences he is also a recognized lecturer having received the Faculty of Humanities and Vice Chancellor s Teaching Award 2013 Wits University South Africa Trends in Education ,1980

Introduction to International Relations Joseph Grieco,G. John Ikenberry,Michael Mastanduno,2022-03-24 This bestselling introductory textbook provides a truly comprehensive and approachable guide to international affairs Bringing together decades of combined experience in researching and teaching global politics from three acclaimed scholars this book introduces you to the key concepts in international relations while equipping you with the tools to successfully analyse the rapidly changing world in which we live Carefully and pedagogically structured the book is driven by nuanced enduring questions to support active engagement with the subject matter It covers everything from war and its causes to the pursuit of peace the role of non state actors on the world stage and transnational concerns such as climate change Thought provoking boxed features throughout highlight disparities between theory and practice provide overviews of key research and make use of the influential levels of analysis framework This third edition is completely updated throughout including extensive coverage of the latest advances in international relations scholarship and supported by a wealth of contemporary case examples The text is supported by a rich companion website with study guides instructor resources and interactive exercises to allow you to consider complicated political decisions for yourself Introduction to International Relations is the ultimate companion for undergraduate students of politics and international relations in need of an exciting and rigorous introduction to the subject Diplomatic training Ruth Craggs,Jonathan Harris,Fiona McConnell,2026-02-10 Despite the essential role diplomatic training plays in the everyday workings of international relations international law and in the various multilateral organisations this practice has received little critical attention in the humanities social and political sciences Bringing together detailed accounts of the histories development and contemporary practices of diplomatic training with insights from key practitioners this edited collection places training centrally within our understanding of international relations It argues that diplomatic training both reflects and reproduces hegemonic power relations whilst at the same time offering opportunities to contest them and imagine alternative futures The book includes a substantive introduction nine full length chapters from a range of disciplinary and regional perspectives drawing on archival research oral history interviews and ethnographic methods and four interventions reflection pieces from trainers and directors of training programmes It offers a globe spanning interdisciplinary account of the politics of diplomatic training and appeals to both scholarly and practitioner audiences
