Technical Cooperation Activities: Beekeeping Wilhelm Drescher, Eva Crane, 1982 Publications of the International Agricultural Research and Development Centers, 1989 Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation Karl S. Zimmerer, 2006-09-15 Examining the geographical dimensions of environmental management and conservation activities implemented on landscapes worldwide Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation creates a new framework and collects original case studies to explore recent developments in the interaction of humans and their environment Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation makes four important arguments about the recent coupling of conservation and globalization that is reshaping the place of nature in human environmental change First it has led to an unprecedented number of spatial arrangements whose environmental management goals and prescribed activities vary along a spectrum from strict biodiversity protection to sustainable utilization involving agriculture food production and extractive activities Conservation and globalization are also leading by necessity to new scales of management in these activities that rely on environmental science thus shifting the spatial patterning of humans and the environment This interaction results as well in the unprecedented importance of boundaries and borders transnational border issues pose both opportunities and threats to global conservation proposed by organizations and institutions that are themselves international Lastly Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation argues that the local level has been integral to globalization while the regional level is often eclipsed at the peril of the successful implementation of conservation and management programs Bridging the gap between geography and life science Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation will appeal to a broad range of students of the environment conservation planning biodiversity management and development and globalization studies Peace Corps Times, 1984 The World History of Beekeeping and Honey Hunting Eva Crane, 1999-10-13 First published in 2000 This comprehensive book represents the first attempt to write a world history of people's use of social bees how bees nests were initially hunted for their honey and wax and later how the bees were kept in purpose made hives Evidence survives from early times in the form of artefacts pictures and written records and also human traditions of dealing with bees Since 1949 the author has had opportunities to travel in over sixty countries and to see traditional and modern hive beekeeping and also honey collection from nests She learned much that helped her to piece together some of the long history in the different continents How to live and survive in Zambezan open forest (Miombo ecoregion) Françoise Malaisse, 2010 In the Miombo ecoregion 2 865 000 km or 9 1% of Africa the Zambezan open forest constitutes the main vegetation unit It extends to no less than eight countries from Burundi in the North to South Africa in the South and from Angola in the West to Mozambique in the East The austral part of Africa's open forests falls within the Zambezan Regional Center of Endemism outlined by White in 1983 This book focuses mainly on the wetter Zambezan Miombo woodlands Also patches of mosaic Zambezan dry evergreen forests and small areas of grasslands on
