Vocabulary Myths Keith S. Folse, 2004-03-10 In Vocabulary Myths Keith S Folse breaks down the teaching of second language vocabulary into eight commonly held myths In debunking each myth he introduces the myth with a story based on his 25 years of teaching experience in the United States and abroad continues with a presentation of what empirical research has shown on the topic and finishes with a list of what teachers can do in their classrooms to facilitate true vocabulary acquisition The goal of Vocabulary Myths is to foster a paradigm shift that correctly views vocabulary as fundamental in any second language learning process and demonstrates that research supports this goal that in fact there is a wealth of empirical evidence to support these views In addition an important theme is that teachers have overestimated how much vocabulary students really understand and as a result the so called comprehensible input is neither comprehensible nor input The second language vocabulary acquisition myths reexamined in this book are In learning another language vocabulary is not as important as grammar or other areas Using word lists to learn L2 vocabulary is unproductive Presenting new vocabulary in semantic sets facilitates learning The use of translations to learn new vocabulary should be discouraged Guessing words from context is an excellent strategy for learning L2 vocabulary The best vocabulary learners make use of one or two really specific vocabulary learning strategies The best dictionary for L2 learners is a monolingual dictionary Teachers textbooks and curricula cover L2 vocabulary adequately students Scores on performance assessments are preferable because of their accuracy and authenticity Multiple choice tests are inaccurate measures of language but are easy to write We should test only one skill at a time A test s validity can be determined by looking at it Issues of fairness are not a concern with standardized testing Teachers should never be involved in preparing students for tests Implications for teaching and an agenda for research are discussed in a conclusion
